Mighty, Humble Grieve For Slain President

Johnson Proclaims Day Of Mourning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The mighty and the humble, from Lyndon B. Johnson to a small boy bearing flowers, joined the grieving widow and family today in mourning the death of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

In one of his first official actions as president, Johnson proclaimed Monday as a day of national mourning on behalf of the fallen Kennedy—"a great and good man."

The new chief executive also invited "the people of the world who share our grief to join us in this day of mourning and rededication."

All federal offices will be closed. Johnson earnestly urged the American people to assemble in the nation's churches, "there to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay their homage of love and reverence to the memory of a great and good man."

As leaders of the free world converged on the capital to pay homage, President Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, accompanied by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, filed slowly past the bier of the slain chief executive.

Preceding them into the black-draped east room of the White House where the body lay were Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and members of the immediate family. Following the new president were members of the House and Senate and hundreds of Washington officials.

At 10:30 a.m., with only the family and close friends present, a Mass was said in the east room by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, former president of the University of Notre Dame and a long time friend of the Kennedys.

This Mass was attended by Mrs. Kennedy and her children, Caroline and John.

Tomorrow the body will be taken to the rotunda of the Capitol where it will lie in state for some 21 hours for public viewing. Thousands were expected to file past. But some chose not to wait to pay respects.

(KTIM will carry NBC's report of the funeral at 9 a.m. Monday.)

Children Are Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy's two children, Caroline and John Jr., have been told that their father is dead, the White House said today.

The youngsters and their grief stricken mother attended a special private mass in the east room this morning and saw their father's casket.

The service, believed the first Roman Catholic Mass ever celebrated in the White House, was intoned in a somber setting of flickering candles reflected by the bronze casket.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the children were told last night that their father was dead. He said he did not know who told them or anything about their reaction.

The children spent the night at the White House. They were taken to the home of Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchinchloss, after the news broke yesterday but were brought back to the White House last evening.

Marin Joins In Mourning Kennedy

Marin County will join the Nation Monday in observance of the funeral of assassinated President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Many county schools and business firms will be closed Monday, and nearly every activity will cease during the hours of the funeral, tentatively scheduled for late Monday morning eastern time.

William D. Fusselman, chairman of the board of supervisors, declared today that all county offices except emergency services will be closed for the funeral but will be open the rest of the day. All city offices in the county will be closed all day.

In accordance with President Lyndon B. Johnson's proclamation of a national day of mourning for Monday, post offices and other federal offices will be closed.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, asked all schools to close Monday, and classes will be cancelled at the College of Marin. But as of noon today there was some confusion among school districts as to whether all schools would close. San Rafael schools and the Tamalpais High School District awaited word from Gov. Edmund G. Brown whether they should call off classes.

(Later developments on school plans will be broadcast over Radio Station KTIM.)

Dr. Maxwell Rafferty, state superintendent, said he would have "no objection" if districts choose to close Monday, but he pointed out that unless a proclamation from the governor specifies schools, districts will have to make up the day later in the year or forfeit a day of state aid money.

Thomas W. Braden, state board of education president, called on all school districts to schedule memorial services for President Kennedy. He did not specify a date but said, "I hope all school districts will urge their students and teachers to take time out to pray for his spirit and for the unity of our country behind Mr. Johnson in the moment of national sorrow."

Parochial schools planned regular classes Monday.

Hollis postponed an open house at his office, scheduled Monday, until Dec. 10.

Banks and savings and loan companies in Marin must remain open unless a proclamation to the contrary is issued by the governor, Fred F. Enemark, San Rafael Chamber of Commerce president, said. Bank of America branches and perhaps other banks will close between noon and 1 p.m. in memory of the president, however.

Most stores in San Rafael, including Macy's, and stores in Mill Valley and elsewhere in the county will be closed all day. The Rafael Theater in San Rafael will continue its regular schedule through the weekend and Monday.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual Monday.

Special memorial church services are planned throughout Marin:

Builders in Marin County will close down all construction Monday.

SILENCE, SHOCK

News Of Assassination Struck Students' Hearts

By GARY ARTOUX
Redwood High School

When we came to school yesterday morning, none of us were aware that that day was any different from all the other school days of the year.

But we did not know that we were to experience an event that will go down in the pages of American history and which will forever remain a vivid memory in our minds.

At approximately 11:30 a.m., our classes were interrupted as the school public address system was turned on.

A teacher solemnly began, "We have an important announcement — President John F. Kennedy was shot and killed in a car parade in Dallas, Texas. . . ."

Students dropped their pencils and looked around at their classmates as if in disbelief.

"My God!" several students shrieked, suddenly realizing that the announcement had been no joke.

Girls began sobbing on their desks and many students clasped their hands in silent prayer.

A number of students put their heads down on their desks stating that they felt like they were about to faint.

When classes were dismissed and students poured into the halls, a deathly silence fell upon the entire school. There was little talking and the sound of crying was audible.

For the rest of the gray morning, students entreated their teachers to allow them to hear details of the shocking assassination on the radio.

At lunch, the silence still prevailed. Many students didn't think of eating—instead they talked nervously with their friends about the event or went to the lunch area to watch films of the fatal parade on a television which had been set up.

Students were heard to ask, "What will we do now?" "Is this the end?" "Why would anyone want to hurt President Kennedy?" "I still can't believe it!"

When classes resumed again, Principal Donald Kreps came on the public address system. He spoke solemnly and as he spoke not a pencil was moved nor did a student stir.

"This man has given his life for his country," Kreps slowly began. "He could have done no greater deed. . . . We must try to follow in our dear president's footsteps, and his death should cause us to work all the harder. We will all long remember the 35th President of these United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy."

The school's flag was lowered to half-staff and a dance scheduled for tonight was promptly canceled.

As the school day drew to a close, students left school, redeyed and knowing that this was to be a date that they would never forget.

Doctor Refuses To Answer Call For Stricken Infant

A Marin County doctor refused an urgent request by San Rafael police today to answer an emergency call for a stricken baby.

The doctor's reason, according to police, was that, "He isn't dressed yet."

The baby, one-month old Joseph Leo Avellon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Avellon of 115 Spring Grove Avenue, San Rafael, was pronounced dead by another doctor at 9:02 a.m.

Assistant County Coroner William Bradley said the baby had a virus cold for the last three days. Mrs. Avellon put the baby to bed last night. She went to the baby's crib this morning and "found him lifeless," according to Bradley.

An emergency call for a policeman and a doctor was received by the county communications center and referred to the San Rafael police at 8:30 a.m.

Police dispatcher Harold Thomson called San Rafael General Hospital. Police department procedure on emergency calls for a doctor during the daytime is to call the hospital for a doctor on duty.

The first doctor reached at the hospital said he was an orthopedic doctor and not qualified to deal with the emergency call. The hospital switchboard connected Thomson to the second doctor at his home.

An Independent-Journal reporter was present when Thomson called the second doctor. The doctor asked where was the emergency call. He was told the location by Thomson.

After a pause, Thomson hung up the telephone. He quoted the doctor as saying that he was not dressed and for a doctor to be contacted on

MONDAY A DAY OF MOURNING IN CALIFORNIA

Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson in Sacramento today declared that Monday would be a day of mourning in California.

Anderson made the announcement in the absence of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who is in Washington, D.C. Anderson's announcement came in a press conference at 1:30 p.m. today.

The announcement means that banks and savings and loan companies may legally close their doors. It also means that public schools may be closed without losing state assistance money. (See earlier story on this page.)

Officials of the Bank of America announced today that all its branches would be closed all day Monday.

Fusselman Asks All Flags Be Flown At Half Staff

William D. Fusselman, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, today requested that all U.S. flags in the county be flown at half staff for 30 days in memory of President John F. Kennedy.

Hamilton Air Force Base reported that its flags will be at half-staff until Dec. 22 regardless of the weather.

In Novato, Junior Chamber of Commerce members distributed more than 130 flags to merchants to be flown in front of business establishments at half-staff.

The law states that the flag should not be flown in stormy weather unless by proclamation. In 1954, former President Eisenhower by proclamation designated that the flag remain at half staff for 30 days upon the death of a president.

The U.S. Flag Foundation announced today that during the 30-day period of mourning being observed in most states—the U.S. flag must remain at half staff, rain or shine, until sunset and can even be displayed after dark if proper illumination is provided.

Lawrence Phelps Tower, president of the foundation, said flags on staffs that cannot be lowered halfway should have a black streamer from the spearhead halfway down the flag. Other flags hanging horizontally or perpendicularly should have a black bunting border of appropriate depth around the flag.

Weeping Women Raise U.S. Flag

Two women crying beneath a front yard flag flying at half staff yesterday formed a tableau of grief in a quiet San Anselmo neighborhood yesterday.

Praying and sobbing they had falteringly hoisted the flag as soon as they heard word of President John F. Kennedy's death.

"I never saw anything so patriotic," a neighbor said.

The flag at the corner of Yolanda Drive and Alder Avenue was raised by Mrs. Moses Davalos and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Eugene Davalos, both of 74 Yolanda Drive.

A neighbor said the two women were so grief stricken they were unable to talk.

Johnson Makes Trip To Church For Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson made an unannounced trip shortly after noon today to ancient St. John's Episcopal Church for prayer.

TASS Challenges Dallas Police

MOSCOW (UPI)—TASS, the official Soviet news agency, today charged Dallas police with trying to implicate the Communist Party in President John F. Kennedy's assassination. Tass insisted the crime was the work of "racists, the Ku Klux Klan and Birchists."

The TASS dispatch from New York said news media were putting out reports "based on statements by Dallas police officials from which only one thing is clear as yet: That the police are trying to implicate the Communist Party in the assassination of the president."

A second TASS article, from two Russian correspondents in Washington, said the murder was "a new link in the chain of crimes committed by southern racists and extremists."

HIGH POINT IN YOUNG LIVES

Twenty-five girls from San Rafael's Dominican Upper School were greeted in Washington by President John F. Kennedy at the start of the school's American Tour last summer. The date was May 29, the president's 46th birthday. Shown here, from left, are Lynn Gratonik of Belvedere, Susan Jones of Ross, Lindsay Merryman of Kentfield, Jane McBride of San Francisco, Mrs. David Mariani of Novato, a biology teacher, and the president. Kennedy's Father Is Told Of Slaying

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—A heartsick family broke the sad news to ailing Joseph P. Kennedy today that his son was assassinated.

A doctor was in the family midst for fear disclosure of the tragedy might worsen the condition of the 75-year-old patriarch of the Kennedy clan.

The elder Kennedy's reaction was not known outside the sprawling white house overlooking Nantucket Sound where he and President John F. Kennedy sailed and frolicked in happier days.

Perhaps indicative that the father took the news hard was the apparent delay in the family's previously indicated plans to fly to Washington shortly after noon.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, the president's 72-year-old mother, attended two masses in a Catholic Church and then went home to tell her husband what the world had known for nearly 20 hours—that their son was mortally wounded by a sniper.

U.S. Has No Evidence Cuba, Russia Involved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A State Department official said today that to his knowledge there was no evidence that Russia, Cuba or any other foreign power was involved in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Other officials conceded that the alleged slayer, Lee H. Oswald, had a record of Communist utterances, had once lived in Russia, had tried to renounce his U.S. citizenship and more recently made speeches supporting Castro.

But they said there was nothing in government files to show a direct link between Communist powers and the assassination of Kennedy yesterday.

Novelist Huxley Dies At 69

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Novelist Aldous Huxley, famed for his satirical vision of a "Brave New World" and a member of the eminent British family of letters and sciences, died yesterday of cancer. He was 69.

Huxley died at his home and private funeral services were conducted this morning in Los Angeles.

Huxley was the son of Leonard Huxley and grandson of renowned biologist Thomas Huxley, credited with popularizing the evolutionary theories of Charles Darwin. He was the brother of Julian Huxley, noted biologist and writer and grandnephew of poet-essayist Matthew Arnold.

The outstanding testament to Huxley's imagination was "Brave New World," the novel that earned him literary immortality in 1932. The satirical classic envisioned a world of babies mass produced in laboratories and brain-washed slave workers.

Exchanges Will Close For JFK's Rites On Monday

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York and American Stock Exchanges said today they will remain closed Monday because of the President's funeral.

The American Exchange said it would reopen at its regular time Tuesday.

A spokesman for the New York Exchange said:

"Tuesday is a business day. We will be open on a business day unless there is a further announcement."

Main and branch offices of some of the nation's large brokerage houses were open today to accept customer calls.

blond boy, followed by two little girls, plucked two hibiscus blossoms from bushes surrounding the resort home of the slain president's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, and placed them on the front steps of the house.

In Berlin, 80,000 West Germans, many weeping, marched in a torchlight parade during the early morning hours. Mayor Willy Brandt, meeting them at city hall, asked Berliners to place lighted candles in their windows during the night.

In Moscow, Nikita Khrushchev expressed the "indignation of the Soviet people against the culprits of this base crime" and dispatched his deputy, Anastas Mikoyan for Monday's Pontifical High Requiem Mass that will be the official state funeral.

At those solemn ceremonies, France will be represented by President Charles De Gaulle, Britain by Prince Philip and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and West Germany by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

At 1 p.m. (EST) tomorrow, to the muffled cadence of a corps of drummers, the body in its heavy mahogany casket will be borne from the White House to the capitol on a caisson drawn by seven horses.

There it will lie in state in the capitol rotunda until 11 a.m., (EST) Monday. It will then be moved to St. Matthews Cathedral several miles away for the Pontifical Requiem Mass that will be celebrated by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston.

Burial is expected to be in the family plot at Brookline, Mass.

In Washington, throughout a darkened rainy day, the east room of the White House was the scene of blackest mourning.

There the casket, draped with an American Flag, lay on a catafalque with a candle burning at each corner. There was just one bouquet, carnations and white lillies. At the foot was a large walnut crucifix with an ivory figure of Christ.

Two priests knelt beside the casket in silent prayer. At each corner of the catafalque, an enlisted man from one of the armed services stood at rigid attention. The fireplace was draped in black, as was the entrance to the east wing of the White House and the pillars in the lobby.

John F. Kennedy, who survived World War II to die on a Dallas street, was felled early yesterday afternnon by two bullets fired by a sniper. Charged with the crime was Lee Harvey Oswald, a Marxist and Fidel Castro sympathizer, who once threatened to get even for a wrong he said had been done him in military service.

Thomson said the doctor's voice sounded as though he had just been awakened.

Meanwhile, the family doctor had been contacted by Officer Lee Ahern who had arrived at the home. Dr. John F. Erlwein of 502 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera, arrived at about 9 a.m. and pronounced the baby dead.

The San Rafael Fire Department dispatched a resuscitator unit at 8:30 a.m. The baby was given resuscitation until Dr. Erlwein arrived.

Police did not obtain the correct name of the doctor who refused to answer the call. His name was not immediately available today.

Funeral arrangements for the infant are pending at Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Fashion Industry Leader Succumbs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hector Escobosa, president of I. Magnin Company, died last night of a heart attack in Williamsburg, Va., friends were advised today. He was 56.

An internationally known leader in the fashion industry, Escobosa had gone east for a meeting of the board of trustees of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc.

Only last week, the American fashion industry had honored him at a testimonial dinner in New York. Proceeds of the function will go to establish a Hector Escobosa research fellowship at the City of Hope Medical Center in Southern California.

U.S. Envoys Requested To Remain At Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson has asked all chiefs of U.S. foreign missions to stay on the job and not submit the usual resignations.

The State Department announced this today, increasing belief the new President is eager to emphasize a continuation of the foreign policies of President John F. Kennedy, who was assassinated yesterday.

FBI reference files in Washington contain 86,000 handwriting specimens of known fraudulent check passers.

Heavy Rains To Taper Off

An unexpectedly heavy rainstorm which drenched Marin County with more than an inch of rain early today will taper off to showers tonight.

The storm brought 1.10 inches to San Rafael, making the season total 9.60.

Snow levels in the mountains ranged from 5,000 feet in the north to 7,500 in central California. The forecast for tomorrow in the Bay Area is variable cloudiness.

Storm totals reported in Marin County as of 8 a.m. were: Chevy Chase sector of Larkspur, 1.65 inches; Ross, 1.40; Woodacre, 1.22; San Anselmo, .95; and Novato, .75.

Western Power Chiefs Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson's succession to the presidency brought the third change in leadership among major Western powers in a little more than a month.

On Oct. 16, aging Konrad Adenauer stepped down as chancellor of West Germany and was succeeded by Ludwig Erhard.

On Oct. 19, ailing British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was succeeded by Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Shock At Death Of Kennedy Felt In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — The people of this Southeast Asian nation, torn by a guerrilla war between Communists and American-backed government forces, were aghast on learning that President John F. Kennedy was dead.

People stopped Americans at random along the streets, asking if the terrible news were true, or demanding, "How could something like this happen in your country?"

The leaders of the military junta that overthrew and assassinated South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem just three weeks ago were in the north city of Dalat for a ceremony and unavailable for comment.

Buddhist leaders said they were "grieved" by the news, and described the dead President as "sympathetic."

LEE HARVEY OSWALD
Held in death of president

Suspect Denies Firing Shots That Killed JFK

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A young man who once tried to renounce his country is charged with firing the two bullets that killed President John F. Kennedy.

"No, I didn't kill the president," Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, said after he was charged last night with murder in the president's assassination.

Oswald swore allegiance to the Soviet Union four years ago and tried to renounce his American citizenship. He said he is now a member of "Fair Play for Cuba." Police termed him arrogant.

President Kennedy died 30 minutes after the assassin's bullets crashed into his neck and head as he neared the end of a triumphal motorcade yesterday.

A third bullet wolunded Texas Gov. John Connally. His condition was reported not critical.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas was asked if authorities were looking for anyone else in connection with the world-stunning murder.

"There is no one else but him," Wade said.

Taken before microphones and cameras early today, Oswald managed an occasional smile as he insisted in a low voice that he was innocent of Kennedy's death.

Wade was asked if he regarded Oswald as Communist-inspired or "just a nut."

He replied: "Well put it this way. I don't think he is a nut. I think he is sane."

Oswald had been taken into custody soon after Kennedy was fatally shot and Governor Connally wounded in the back by three volleys fired from a high-powered rifle.

Kennedy and Connally had been riding side by side in the presidential limousine, their wives sitting just ahead of them.

The key factor that led to Oswald's arrest at 2 p.m. yesterday—an hour after the president's death—was the apparently senseless killing of a Dallas killing.

Authorities said a clear trail led to Oswald and he was charged earlier with murder in the death of the officer.

If the massive manhunt for the 46-year-old president's assassin was ended, the investigation by city police and agents of the FBI and Secret Service continued.

Wade said the case could come come to trial within three weeks, or could be delayed for as long as two months.

A trail of strange circumstances led authorities to bear down on Oswald as the prime suspect in the killing:

Oswald worked in a textbook warehouse which police pinpointed as the place from which a high-powered rifle with a telescopic sight was aimed at the head of the chief executive as he drove past in his open limousine.

Police said Oswald was in the building at the time.

Within 45 minutes after yesterday's assassination, and almost at the moment Kennedy's heartbeat stopped, a policeman who tried to pick up Oswald as a suspicious person four miles from the warehouse was shot to death.

Police said the bullet that killed the officer came from a pistol fired by Oswald, who was charged with murder.

Mrs. Oswald, mother of a 2-month-old child, was quoted by Wade as reporting her husband had in his possession as recently as Thursday night a rifle matching in description the one used by the assassin.

The personal history of Oswald was in character with the misfit backgrounds of past presidential assassins, who were lunatics, anarchists or political fanatics of one kind or another.

Police said that Oswald, during 10 hours of questioning, was arrogant and defiant. They promised him a night's sleep in the city jail before grilling him anew.

Wade told newsmen that Dallas authorities had no prior cause to take note of his activities.

Police were certain that the assassin's shots were fired from the fifth floor of the Texas School Depository, an aging brick building on the western fringe of the business district where a private firm stores, buys and sells school textbooks.

The bullets traveled about 100 yards at a 45-degree angle.

As the dying President slumped forward, his wife, Jacqueline, reached for her husband, uttering a desperate and pathetic, "Oh, no!"

Minutes later, police were tipped a suspicious-looking man had been seen entering the Texas Theater and a squad of police quickly surrounded the little movie house.

They brought Oswald out after a fight and he was charged, hours later, with Tippett's slaying. An eyewitness told police Oswald shot Tippett, who had apparently stopped the dishonorably discharged ex-Marine for questioning. No one knows what caused the officer to want to question Oswald.

Kennedy Family Asks No Flowers Be Sent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The family of John F. Kennedy has asked that no flowers be sent for his services or to the White House.

An announcement issued by the White House last night said the family "asked that anyone wishing to do so donate an equivalent amount to charity."

Connally Is Told Of Kennedy Death

DALLAS, Tex., (AP) — Gravely wounded Gov. John Connally was told today by his wife that President John F. Kennedy is dead.

Mrs. Connally talked to the governor shortly after 7 a.m., and Connally's first question was about Kennedy's condition.

After hearing her answer, he said, "That's what I was afraid of."

One of Connally's aides, Julian Read, described Connally's condition as much improved. He said that the governor also asked about Mrs. Kennedy and was told that she had returned to Washington.

"The first Mrs. Connally knew of any shooting was when her husband whirled and saw the president fall forward," Read said. "This must have been about two seconds after Kennedy was shot.

"Connally's turn, which was to the left, probably saved his life. After the governor was shot, he also toppled forward."

Mrs. Connally talked to Kennedy relatives this morning and inquired about Mrs. Kennedy's condition. Read said Mrs. Connally expressed again her concern and sympathy.

Read said President Lyndon B. Johnson had called Mrs. Connally last night and asked about the governor's condition.

The governor this morning asked his wife if they had found the president's assassin. Mrs. Connally said a man had been arrested.

A stack of telegrams over one-foot high had accumulated in the temporary governor's office at Parkland Hospital.

Connally underwent surgery for more than one hour. After awakening, he asked: "How's Nellie?" referring to his wife. He then asked: "How are the kids?" and went back to sleep.

Dr. Robert Shaw, his attending physician, described the governor as "mentally alert, his condition satisfactory and stable."

"I do not anticipate his getting any worse," Shaw said.

Khrushchev Calls Kennedy's Death Heavy Blow To Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev returned to Moscow from a tour today for a special call at the U.S. Embassy to express his condolences on the death of President John F. Kennedy. He called the assassination heinous and said it was a heavy blow to those who cherish peace and U.S.-Soviet cooperation.

The Soviet officials did not say where Khrushchev had come from but he was last reported in Kiev. Members of the premiear's party said Khrushchev returned to Moscow especially for the call at the embassy.

The Soviet premier, accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, visited the embassy shortly after sending a telegram to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"The death of President Kennedy is a heavy blow to all people who cherish the cause of peace and Soviet-American cooperation," it said.

The telegram said the "heinous assassination of Kennedy" came at a time when there appeared signs of relaxation of international tension and a prospect has opened for improving relations between the USSR and the United States."

Khrushchev and his wife, Nina, also sent telegrams to Mrs. Kennedy expressing their condolences at Kennedy's death.

The Soviet premier signed a book that was placed in a hall of the embassy residence by Ambassador Foy D. Kohler for condolence signing by diplomats. He then entered the embassy for a brief conversation with Kohler.

Near the book was a picture of Kennedy with a black mourning band across one corner. The photograph was signed by Kennedy to Kohler—"with high esteem and warm personal regards."

Two Marines stood at attention beside the book. Nearby was an American flag, draped with black crepe.

Johnson, Garfield From Same Faith

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is the second chief executive to belong to the Christian Church Disciples of Christ.

The other was President James A. Garfield, who was shot by an assassin July 2, 1881 and died Sept. 19 of that year.

The Christian Church, as it is most commonly known, numbers about 1.8 million members in the United States.

De Gaulle Will Attend

Pope Prays For Late President

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI prayed today for President John F. Kennedy, gave him absolution, and expressed the "prayerful wishes that his death may not hinder the cause of world peace."

The death of Kennedy the first Roman Catholic to reach the White House, plunged this tiny city-state into deep mourning.

Its yellow and white banners were flown at half-staff, the first time that has been done for a chief of state other than a Pope.

Pope Paul dedicated his morning Mass to Kennedy and then, in an unusual action, asked that the U.S. president also be remembered in a memorial Mass in St. Peter's for prelates who have died in the past year.

The memorial Mass is conducted annually.

Pope Paul attended the service, which was scheduled long ago, and gave absolution over a symbolic coffin. The absolution was for all commemorated in the Mass—prelates and Kennedy.

Bay Area Gun Salutes In Honor Of Kennedy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gun salutes in memory of President John F. Kennedy were fired at 8 a.m. today at Treasure Island and Alameda Naval Air Station.

The salutes were to continue every half hour until sunset.

Johnson Strong After His Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson suffered a severe heart attack in 1955 but bounded back with barely a sign of his brush with death.

His attack came while he was exhausted from his duties as Senate majority leader during the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In the campaign of 1960 Johnson was asked about his health and replied his physicians thought it was "too good. They say I feel too good and go too much and work too long."

TELEVISION PROGRAMS CHANGED

Television networks and Bay Area TV stations have announced that their programming will be confined to news and public affairs coverage, without commercials, until after the funeral of President John F. Kennedy.

The television log appearing in today's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine was prepared in advance of that announcement and does not reflect that change.

The 'Round Marin calendar of entertainment and art events was also prepared prior to the president's death, and is subject to cancellations and postponements.

Succession Order To Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the top order of succession to the presidency as established by law in 1947:

The vice president, a post now vacant with the elevation of Lyndon B. Johnson to the presidency.

The speaker of the House of Representatives, now Democrat John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

The president pro tempore of the Senate, now Democratic Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona.

The secretary of state—Dean Rusk of New York.

The secretary of the treasury — Douglas Dillon of New Jersey.

Slain Dallas Officer Left Family Of Four

DALLAS (UPI) — The other man killed by gunfire in Dallas yesterday was a city policeman who left a wife and three children—and no life insurance.

He was Patrolman J. D. Tippitt, 39, an 11-year veteran of the force who was shot and killed trying to apprehend the man accused of assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

A spokesman said Dallas police are not covered by a city insurance policy, but Mrs. Tippitt will receive some money from the police retirement fund.

The dead policeman's children are Charles Allen, 13, Brenda Kay, 10, and Curtiss Glenn, 4.

Many Schools Lost Their State Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Schools that closed early yesterday because of President Kennedy's assassination lost their state support funds for the entire day.

That's the law, the State Department of Education explained today. The department said it was deluged with calls from local districts after Gov. Edmund G. Brown told state employees to go home for the day. But state law still prevailed in the schools.

Medal Of Honor May Go To John Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., said last night he will ask the Congress to award the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously to President Kennedy.

The congressman, an early supporter of Kennedy's bid for the Democratic Presidential Nomination in 1960, said he would make the request in the form of a joint resolution, introduced "in the name of the people of the United States."

Death Sentence

DALLAS (AP) — Under Texas law, a man convicted of murder could draw a death sentence. Executions are carried out in the electric chair at the state prison in Huntsville.

SEW SIMPLE

An Easier Way To Replace Those Old Worn Out Pockets

By EUNICE FARMER

"My wife is sewing all the time and still she tells me she doesn't know how to replace the pockets in my trousers. Surely there must be an easier way than having your secretary staple them across the bottom (as I had to do)!"—Mr. "X"

Dear Mr. "X":

Lucky gal to be married to a man with such a sense of humor! For some reason or other, we gals just don't seem to be able to get too excited about mending of any nature. However, you can buy the twill type pockets at most any notion counter for replacing worn out pockets. Instead of ripping the entire pocket out (which would be quite a project), just cut the lower two-thirds of the pocket off. Now you can replace the worn part in just a couple of minutes by replacing with the new part of the pocket.

"I recently saw a two-piece chiffon dress in a magazine I would like to copy for the holiday season, but the fine-pleated skirt has me stumped. How can I pleat chiffon or would georgette make up better?"—Mrs. M.M.

Dear Mrs. M.M.:

Unfortunately, there are a few things we home-sewers just can't do at home. Pleating of this type is impossible to do, it must be done professionally by someone who has the proper equipment. If you live in a large city, you may be lucky enough to have someone who does permanent pleating in all fabrics. Georgette would have the same problems as chiffon.

Too late for Halloween this year, but a novel idea for most any time of the year are colorful, costume pajamas to stimulate the hard-to-get-to-bed child. They are perfect for overnight parties and for any kind of entertainment. They're just as easy to make as the common variety pajamas and will serve many occasions.

Mrs. Wm. Emmons, San Diego, Calif., is this week's winner of a tailor trix pressing board for this suggestion.

MRS. H.S. says: "To keep your thread from knotting while you are doing hand sewing, thread your needle directly from the spool and knot your thread before breaking it off the spool.

"I'm afraid this question is going to make me look like a 'Sew Simpleton,' but I need your opinion. I am wondering if I am right, or the pattern is right, but I am making a double-breasted coat and according to the pattern, I am only supposed to make the buttonholes on the outer edge of the coat and just sew the buttons on the other side (without buttonholes). Is so, why?"—Mrs. C.J.

Dear Mrs. C.J.:

The pattern is right, and if you doubt this, check on your ready-to-wear coats and suits that are double breasted. You will find two rows of buttons, but only one row of buttonholes.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Cloque: This is a French word for "blistered" which in this case describes fabric with small, irregularly raised areas. This fabric is especially popular this season and must be carefully handled and pressed to avoid flattening out the blisters.

Youthful Lines Dominate New California Spring Collections

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—Youth and youthful lines dominated a new avant garde collection of California spring fashions.

THEY CAME from two new designers and one veteran.

Newcomers Domonique and Annette Bullock reversed the trend to strong colors and used subtle shades of pastels and neutrals in semi-fitted dresses and costumes that had an expensive look. But the prices were moderate.

GEORGIA BULLOCK, Annette's sister and a veteran of nearly 20 years in fashion design, came out Thursday with a jazzed up version of the classic styles she is known for in a higher price range—over $100. She called the new line Miss Georgia and it was about half the price.

Sleeves and more fitted lines predominated. Even if a dress were sleeveless the designers extended them slightly for a short capped look.

IN THE HIGHER priced Georgia Bullock line, draw strings often were added to make the waist line adjustable, riding the hip or showing off the waist.

Sleeves were cut off above the elbow, cuffed just below it or slightly puffed. Peggy Hunt, another veteran designer, ruffled her sleeves at the elbow.

DOMONIQUE, a pint-sized young designer who once marketed her own linen joined the firm of Phil Altbaum Inc., which was seeking for a more forward-looking collection.

Her dresses done in traditional linen, voile, and sheer wool and crepe had an easy look.

On a grey voile sleeveless sheath she draped embroidered trim around the V neck. A banana linen costume had an enormous ruffled bib in gold voile.

SHE ALSO showed semi-fitted sheaths, some with long sleeves others with puffy bishop sleeves.

There was even a black linen dress with a white jacket that looked like something out of Ben Casey. Miss Georgia went in for shifts, costumes with vests, a drop torso and sleeveless jumpers.

THE BIGGEST hand from the 80 fashion editors, viewing the collection during press week, was a French blue, long sleeve shift which Miss Bullock topped with what she called a mutiny collar. The collar was a large V-shaped affair like those officers wore in the film "Mutiny On the Bounty."

Princess Scores U.S. First

By KARINA ENEBERG

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — As a one-year-old baby, Princess Christina of Sweden gave a magazine photographer such a hard time he reported to his boss that the royal infant was "very ugly and terribly wild."

Now, at 20 and a student at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., this fall, Christina still is no raving beauty, but she is neither ugly nor wild. She is the first member of Swedish royalty to study in the United States.

Swedes predict confidently that the Radcliffe girls will find Christina completely charming. In looks she is not a typical Nordic. She does have bright blue eyes but her hair is too darkly blonde, and her face too wide.

LIKE MOST European princesses today, and especially those of Scandinavia, Christina is thoroughly and genuinely democratic. She hides from, rather than seeks publicity. Gay and out-going, she was highly popular among classmates at the French School in Stockholm which she left last spring.

She is regarded as a good student and a serious one. Music is her great interest and her tastes run to the classical. She is a proficient piano player, a talented ballet dancer and critics who have seen her perform say that with more training she easily could become a professional.

Christina also is a good sportswoman. She has never been seen playing tennis — "the" game of the Swedish royal family — but she is an excellent skier and for years was an enthusiastic figure-skater.

State Lets Marin Property Take Crushing Burdens

While the state eases its own financial burdens in such fields as welfare and education, it loads ever more on the county payer of property taxes.

That is the focal point of the picture drawn before Marin supervisors the other day in the course of analyzing latest trends in welfare administration.

The supervisorial consensus was that to eliminate such costly and obsolete systems as large isolated state institutions for the mentally ill and retarded, and to develop local community resources, is proper. But at the same time it's unfair and doesn't make sense if the state fails to share some of its own gain through relief from vast institutional expenses of the past.

This philosophy also applies in education. State participation has dropped generally from around 50 to around 40 per cent while costs have gone up several hundred per cent. Moreover, in both education and welfare the county has little discretion—"the orders come down."

There is finally bound to be a limit, believe it or not, to what can be raised from property taxation. There can be no question, moreover, but that in principle income tax places the burden more fairly, and in line with ability to pay.

Sales tax similarly is a more sensible and sensitive medium, skimming the cream off actual transactions instead of robbing the elderly. But who likes it? Not the public at large. Efforts to boost sales taxes are a nice way to dig one's political grave.

It is of little avail for such local officials as county supervisors to seek any overall vast reduction in public outlay. As newcomers in office they promptly discover that they are handling far less power than they expected. In many matters they must take orders from the state, and be in jeopardy of losing state and federal aid if they don't see to it that every requirement is fully met.

The Marin supervisors' discussion showed an acute awareness of the fallacy of overloading the property tax critter, and it was a good inspiration to seek closer contact with Marin representatives in Sacramento.

It was a similarly sound idea to plan circulation of Marin grassroot views among the supervisors of other counties, sharing our perplexities and sometimes even harder hit by current developments. Placer County, for example, has found recent welfare requirements imposing a charge of seven cents per $100 assessed property value —substantial for anybody and extremely so for Placer.

The trend toward a welfare state continues on both the state and the federal levels. At any rate a more equable distribution of the tax burden is due and overdue. It is good to see unanimity and clear thought on the problem in Marin.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to former I-J staff photographer Dick Steinheimer on publication of his portfolio of rail scenes, "Backwood Railroads of the West."

A BRICKBAT to every Marin motorist contributing to traffic blockades, notably in San Rafael and especially as Christmas shopping starts, by bogging down in intersections so that nobody can move in either direction.

BOUQUETS to John S. Hoffmire, new president of the Tiburon Peninsula Coordinating Council, and Robert P. Howell heading the Marin Conservation Council.

A BOUQUET to the Marin Motion Picture and Television Council for its pack-house showings of the award-winning film "Question 7"—likewise to all who contributed to this success.

DE GAULLE HOLDS ON

French Leader Feels No One Could Take Over Presently

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI News Analyst

IT IS NOW all but official. French Pres. Charles De Gaulle, who turned 73 yesterday, will seek another term as president to carry him at least through 1970.

The word comes from sources close to De Gaulle and is significant for two reasons.

—De Gaulle sees no one capable of succeeding him in the years which he regards as crucial for France and Europe.

—The North Atlantic Treaty, signed in 1949, expires in 1969 and must be renegotiated.

De Gaulle believes the NATO treaty must be refurbished to meet the changing times, including the fact that by that time France will be a full - fledged nuclear force able to strike both by air and from Polaris - type submarines.

Backed by a French nuclear force, De Gaulle believes, Europe then will be able to declare itself independent of the United States.

This also would include European independence of any two - way agreements reached between Washington and Moscow.

De Gaulle supporters believe that at least two recent events are proving the correctness of his attitude.

ONE WAS the unexpectedly heavy criticism of the U. S.-proposed multi - nation nuclear fleet which was encountered among European representatives during a discussion of NATO policies. Predictions now are that the U. S. plan will be shelved indefinitely or at least until after British elections.

The Soviet blockade of U. S. convoys on the Berlin autobahn also is being cited in support of De Gaulle's boycott of disarmament talks with the Soviets until all Soviet threats are removed.

THESE, along with De Gaulle's concept of a future Europe, represent unfinished business which De Gaulle is reluctant to leave in the hands of others.

At home, a decisive demonstration of the strength of the De Gaulle leadership came recently in the National Assembly which approved both his record budget and large appropriations with which to build his nuclear force.

But these were demonstrations of De Gaulle's personal strength and not necessarily of the Gaullist party or of unity of purpose.

THE MISSING SHOPPING CARTS

It's no small headache for super-markets to keep customers from disappearing with the shopping carts provided for their convenience.

As things stand, about 500,000 of these carts disappear from the premises each year, never to return.

At a cost of $30 a cart, this amounts to a loss of $15 million annually, plus the further expense of trying to retrieve the missing carts.

Shoppers often push the carts out of stores into the parking lots pretending to unload purchases into a car. But, instead, they just push them on home.

Most of the carts are eventually abandoned. For example, 108 of them recently turned up in a dredging operation in a river near Boston.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Almcrants Defenders Not Fellow-Workers

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As Mr. Almcrants takes his leave of Mill Valley shrouded in the belated efforts of his Committee of Five to beatify him, it is only fair to point out that he has been defended principally by those who do not deal with him as a manager.

Our city councilmen were all elected by wide majorities. They have done a first rate job in keeping our city beautiful, holding the line against apartments and hillside desecration, developing good employee relations, working for teen and recreational projects, moving our yacht harbor forward, fighting conflicts of interest, and eliminating wasteful jobs and procedures. Four to one they said Mr. Almcrants failed to hold up his end. And Mr. Almcrants chose to resign rather than answer their statements in a public hearing.

Our city employees have done a fine job in a city with low commercial tax revenue. Yet they have been uniform in their statements that Mr. Almcrants failed to lead, listen or learn. "Only council intervention turned the tide," they have said.

And as one of about 50 property owners who watched the efforts to get Mr. Almcrants to act on a problem involving a virtual junk-yard, tree - cutting operation on Corte Madera Avenue, I can affirm that only council intervention "turned the tide." Citizen after citizen went to Mr. Almcrants to discuss patent violations of the law, but months went by with only evasions, buck-passing, and inaction on his part. It took a petition by about 50 citizens to get action — and this had to come at a council session.

The majority of citizens in Mill Valley do not expect their councilmen to manage the city. They expect the manager to do that. This means he must implement policy, inspire his employees, and take care of public problems at the administrative level — not requiring citizens to "petition" our over-worked volunteer councilmen for routine action.

Apparently, the overwhelming majority of councilmen hope our councilmen are doing their best to secure such qualifications in our new manager.

Honest Abe Enjoyed A School Frill!

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Things have really changed! There are hair-driers in the high schools for girl students to dry their hair after taking a shower. Whatever happened to shower caps?

Now, a fireplace for the school library! That does it! What real benefit will the students derive from it? Then, of course, there is the additional expense of supplying fuel for the fire, at $36 to $38 per cord. The custodian will have the added chore of cleaning the fireplace, plus keeping the fire going, which will be too much of an additional chore. Another custodian for the fireplace will be added to the payroll.

Next comes the complimentary furniture to surround this fireplace. I wonder what is so difficult for students to obtain books from the library and taking them home to read, while toasting their toes in front of their home fireplaces.

In a few years time, the cost and maintenance of this cock-eyed fireplace could supply enough money for another class-room.

While I am at it, I might as well throw in the subject of the Civic Center too. Mr. Fusselman is on the right track. Why any qualms about seeking public opinion on the subject? Because the majority of tax-payers voted against the Civic Center in the first place.

Many of my neighbors have the same thoughts about the above subjects. There is certainly a need for improvement in planning and spending the tax-payers hardearned money.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

In a Palm Springs motel, a whole corridor was entertained one evening by a harangue conducted by a shrill wife in the motel's deluxe suite. The husband's entire contribution consisted of a few "uh-huhs."

Suddenly there was a series of bangs, a moment's pause, and then the plaintive wail of the wife. "Henry, I simply refuse to speak to you through three locked doors!"

The late Joe Frisco, stuttering comic, was actually funnier off-stage than he was before the footlights. He had an incurable mania for betting on horses that finished last.

A friend once urged him to put $10,000 a year aside for a rainy day. "Comes another depression in ten years," explained the friend, "and you will be sitting pretty with a hundred thousand dollars stashed away."

"Nothing doing," decided Frisco. "With my l-l-luck, there'd be no depression, and I'd just be s-s-stuck with the hundred thousand!"

That Leaky Roof's Not On Barn But On Plush Civic Center

IT WAS AMUSING at first to realize that even the multi-million dollar Civic Center had its faults — that the plastic dome leaked like an old barn roof.

But now the novelty has worn off, and the constant drip-drip after every heavy rain is getting to be a nuisance. They've cut down the number of leaks to a few spots, so that you have only a few buckets to contend with when you walk down the shiny corridors.

It may be that the shrinkage and expansion of plastic make it difficult to plug up all the gaps. But let's hope they do something about it before too long.

JUDO SEEMS to be getting a firm toehold on the county. In Novato, Capt. Clark Henry just had open house on his new Northern California School of Judo in the Associated Developers Building at 955 Front Street.

And in Larkspur, veteran Del Esposti has a brand new building at Magnolia and Murray Avenue. Kids seem to enjoy tossing each other around like sacks of flour.

But for old timers like us, it's best to take it slow and easy, eh Ed and Josh?

YOU CAN CALL long distance out of the Civic Center through the telephone switchboard. But the calls had better be on official business because they've got a monitoring system that keeps tabs on who, when and for how long.

For example, who made a couple of phone calls to Anchorage, Alaska, and why? And why would anyone want to talk to Los Angeles for a solid 35 minutes.

It's good to know that our tax dollars are being watched from all angles.

THE BACKWOODSY atmosphere will soon be gone from the Marinwood Fire Station.

They'll be bidding goodbye to the old shack at the county farm, which served them so well for years. Their new quarters in the community center will be as modern as the best of them in the county.

In Terra Linda, firemen are in their new quarters, but it's far from being completed. They're putting in their own bunk room and living quarters with voluntary labor and materials.

HAVE YOU noticed the autumn leaves floral arrangements on the counter in the county Public Works office?

We sent in an investigation team to make sure they weren't spending extra money on a professional flower arranger. But it turned out to be just a hobby of one of the gals behind the counter—by the name of Claudette Halbe.

THERE'S something strikingly different about that new lodge-motel they've got north of Novato.

Maybe it's the "clean" look — complete absence of any vegetation or landscaping around the building. It just juts straight out of bare ground. Not even a blade of stray grass to mar the view.

Wonder if there's any truth to the rumor that Frank Keaton is being considered as of supervisor caliber?

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Soviet Sweetie Played Role In Barghoorn Mystery

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The bitter-sweet complexities of romance are definitely entwined in Prof. Frederick Barghoorn's mysterious imprisonment in Russia.

The 52-year-old bachelor Yale educator was trying to arrange for a Russian woman to be allowed to come to the U. S. to marry him when he was suddenly arrested as a spy.

He has known her for a number of years. But his repeated efforts to gain permission for her to leave Russia have been unavailing.

CLOSE FRIENDS know little about her, other than that she is an intellectual and is engaged in the "cultural field." Barghoorn has been active in promoting cultural relations between the U. S. and the Soviet.

One theory being advanced by State Department authorities is that Barghoorn's arrest was primarily for "domestic consumption"; that is, as a pointed warning to Russians to avoid ties with foreigners. The Kremlin took this means of hammering home the long-standing policy that its people are to keep away from foreigners.

NO OUTSIDER knows more about this policy than Barghoorn. In one of his publications he wrote:

"Normal relations between Soviet citizens and foreigners are made difficult by fundamental features of the Soviet system. . . . Warnings and sometimes arrests have befallen Soviet citizens who, without instructions, enter into more than casual, accidental contacts with foreign visitors.

"Even Soviet scientists, though freer than under Stalin, cannot with impugnity conduct professional correspondence with foreign colleagues without clearance from their superiors."

CASTRO STOOGE—A well-known U. S. author was paid $25,000 to write a favorable book about the Communist Castro regime.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss.), is preparing to make public a contract between this author and Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa for this axle-greasing book.

The author has admitted to the Senate investigators that he received the $25,000. Now living in New York, he has written and lectured extensively on Latin America.

RED FLASHES — Those Red Chinese "advisers" the State Department has finally admitted are in Cuba were transported in Russian ships. That's the word of Navy intelligence. It estimates these Chinese "advisers" now number around 8,000: 5,000 paratroopers and 3,000 "technicians." The Soviet vessels that brought them to Cuba returned with cargoes of sugar for China. . . .

The chiefs of staff of seven Arab states are meeting in Cairo for the avowed purpose of "preparing the way for a conference of Arab foreign ministers and defense ministers to discuss Israeli plans to divert the Jordan River." Most of these Arab states are big beneficiaries of U. S. foreign aid, particularly Egypt, a ring-leader in this get-together. Last year, Egypt got more than 200 million dollars in U. S. surplus commodities and other aid, and this year the total is even greater.

Honky-Tonks, Sewage Troubling Tahoe

Is Lake Becoming Gambling Cesspool And Coney Island?

By GEORGE SKELTON

AL TAHOE (UPI)—Mark Twain once called Lake Tahoe "the loveliest sight the whole earth affords."

People don't speak that way any more — especially about Lake Tahoe.

Justly or not, this famed Sierra resort 6,225 feet high on the California-Nevada border is being dubbed everything from "a cesspool for gambling joints," "a recreational slum" and "a city with a hole in the middle" to "a Sierra Coney Island."

At the same time it's being acclaimed as Nevada's new "IN" resort, the "coming Vegas" "the pinnacle of success" for entertainers and "America's all-year playground."

Tahoe boasts the world's top night club performers, some of its most exquisite beauty, enough gambling to satisfy anybody and more business than it can handle. Add these up and they total trouble.

The 21.6 mile long lake, one of three clearest in the world, is threatened by sewage pollution. Along the shore, neon motor lodge signs dangle from pine limbs. "Buy now" billboards replace timber in the forests. "Indian trading posts," "carnivals," hamburger joints, overrun lots—they're everywhere. California plans to ring its side of the lake with a freeway or "parkway." And, although Lake Tahoe has 71 miles of shoreline, only seven are public.

From Mark Twain's day until a decade ago urbanization of Tahoe's wilderness moved slowly. Civilized life at the sleepy lake consisted mainly of a few millionaires' homes, some summer cabins, scattered resorts and camp grounds. The trip was long and hard.

But gambling, freeways, winter sports and plenty of promotion changed all that in the early 1950s.

Now thousands arrive daily by airplane or on two transcontinental highways. Whereas the trip from San Francisco formerly took days, the 200 plus miles now are traveled before lunch.

In summer, tourists bring swimming suits, boats, fishing gear and hiking boots. In winter, they lash skiis to the car roof and head for nearby Squaw Valley, site of the 1960 winter Olympics, or Heavenly Valley, to ride a new tramway.

But always they bring their wallets. And, as if drawn magnetically by the razzle-dazzle atmosphere of gaming tables and showgirls, and jingle-jangle of slot machines and honkty-tonk, they scurry to one of a dozen Nevada casinos that separate the two states at either end of the lake.

By far the most popular and successful of these are the two big clubs at south shore—Harrah's and Harvey's Wagon Wheel.

Although official figures never are divulged, informed sources say Harrah's Tahoe operation is the biggest in Nevada—if not in the world. They say Harvey's is number three. And these two, they add, operate more slot machines than the entire Las Vegas "strip."

"We had no idea of getting as big as we are," Bill Harrah says. "But we get lucky once in awhile."

Harrah's popularity stems largely from the top drawer entertainment he books. For $4.40, including tax, a person may sit in Harrah's luxurious South Shore Room with four drinks of his choice and watch the world's top talent.

And no wonder. Harrah provides his top stars with a beach house, motel suites, speed boats and even a Rolls-Royce.

Harrah's "favors" don't stop with the performers. He offers babysitting service for children of all ages, and virtually free round trip bus transportation from the San Francisco Bay Area. These trips average about 34 daily.

Across the street, Harvey Gross opened shop in 1946 with six slot machines and a small bar. Last year he completed an 11-story, 8.5 million-dollar hotel and got so big he decided to discontinue as "unnecessary" all chartered bus trips.

"We've had 89 conventions since April and have 101 booked between now and next June," explains publicist Lou Hardy.

Harvey offers unique service: He buses hundreds of vacationers to church each Sunday.

What kind of tourists come to Tahoe?

A Harrah's official says "they're generally from the middle class up. The average person here is a guy who is not trying to make his fortune, but someone who is out for an evening or a weekend—you know, having a ball."

Edward Olsen, the Nevada Gaming Control Board chairman, says Tahoe is "certainly not" replacing Vegas as hangout for so-called "high-rollers."

"Tahoe is coming and is growing, no question about that, but it's a different type of thing than Vegas," Olsen says. "It's more like Reno. There are proportionately more middle income people coming to Tahoe and Reno than to Vegas. Vegas seemingly has more people with a little extra wealth."

However, the latest quarterly gross winnings released by the state, for April through June, are interesting. Although Las Vegas' take still has three and one-half times that of south shore Tahoe, the desert oasis was down about three per cent compared to the same period a year before. Meanwhile south shore was up about 6.7 per cent.

Many theories are advanced at Tahoe as to why "The lake in the sky" changed from a quiet, Alpine wilderness Shangri-la to a brightly lit, skyscrapered gambling center beset with countless problems.

But a Nevada consulting engineer hit it right on the button recently when he said: "The problem at Lake Tahoe is not sewage or gambling. It is people."

In 1950, the permanent all-year population of the entire 506 square mile Tahoe basin was only 2,700. Now it's 17,000 and growing at the fantastic rate of 30 per cent. On peak tourist days, the population hits about 150,000. And by 1980, there'll be more than 400,000 here on big weekends. By comparison, neighboring Alpine County in California has a population of around 400.

To make matters worse, the federal government, two states, five counties and 76 smaller agencies all have some jurisdiction over the lake. Efforts to place a bi-state commission in charge of public recreation so far have failed. And the lake lacks even one incorporated city, although there is a move to form one on the south shore.

The most controversial problem at present is south shore sewage—what to do with it. When the sewage, even treated to highest standards, is pumped to spreading grounds, it has a way of seeping back into streams which flow into the lake. This causes algae and threatens to ruin the lake's clarity.

The Lake Tahoe Area Council, a private organization, financed a $125,000 sewage engineering study which recommended that existing disposal methods be abandoned. Since then there has been a suggestion that a 16-million-dollar two and one-half mile tunnel be drilled through a mountain into Nevada's Carson Valley. This could house a two-lane highway and also carry away Tahoe's sewage problem.

One of Tahoe's biggest critics has been California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who in turn has been charged with issuing "reckless publicity releases" that "destroy the worldwide image" of the lake.

Brown says south shore already is virtually "a recreational slum." And he has asked his agencies to come up with a way to "save" the rest of the lake.

"To build more gambling joints on the Lake Tahoe shore is to my mind sacriligeous," Brown says. "Let them have their gambling at Las Vegas or Reno, but they ought to stay away from Lake Tahoe."

Meanwhile, Harrah's is going ahead with plans to build a 25-story hotel costing anywhere from 12 to 25 million dollars. A similar structure is being constructed by the Del Webb Corp. And an eight-story hotel soon will rise on the California side.

Thomas Wolfe once said "you can't go home again."

And the same applies here.

Right now the big questions are: "Where do we go from here?" and "Will success spoil Lake Tahoe?"

BEACH SCENE—This is D. L. Bliss State Park at Lake Tahoe, with a family having a picnic, swimmers and sunbathers. Many officials are worried that all this will be spoiled by the lake's growing sewage problem and the honky-tonk atmosphere. (AP photo)

RICH TREASURE FOR LISBON

Portugal Tightens Ties With Africa

By GEORGE ARFELD

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Braced by its conviction of holding historical and moral rights over its African territories, Portugal today is more determined than ever to hold on to these lands, comprising an area roughly 23 times the size of the mother country.

Running parallel to the ideology surrounding Portugal's presence in Africa lies the unquestionable fact that its two greatest territories are veritable fountains of riches that have been but lightly tapped.

Angola in the west, and Mozambique in the east, are the two main territories in Africa. Their wealth has never been totally measured but potentially they can be compared to Brazil, a former Portugese colony in South America.

Other Portugese lands in Africa include Portugese Guinea, a Switzerland-sized wedge of muggy lowlands-between Senegal and Guinea, and the islands of Cape Verde and Sao Tome.

Angola is the richest of Portugal's "provinces" in Africa. It has been the apple in Lisbon's eye since its first explorers landed in the Congo, 450 years ago, searching for Prester John's legendary empire.

Extending 1,000 miles along the West Coast of Africa, from the mouth of the Congo River to the arid wastes of Southwest Africa, Angola is rich in oil, diamonds, coffee, sugar, tobacco and cotton. Its shores yield respectable amounts of fish and many of its swift rivers are waiting to be harnessed.

Standing squarely in the Congo's way to the sea, Angola also plays a vital part in the development and extraction of Katanga's vast mining riches.

The British - owned Benguela Railway runs from the port of Lobito into the heart of the Congo - Katanga mining district. It is the shortest outlet for copper, aluminum, manganese, cobalt, zinc and iron ores of the region. Long trains move daily from Katanga to Lobito, hauling hopper after hopper full of minerals.

The Benguela Railway is also the Western railhead for the only rail facility linking the Atlantic and Indian Oceans. The Eastern end is in Mozambique.

Control of this railroad, plus virtual possession of the Congo river's mouth — it flows into the Atlantic between the Angolan mainland and the Cabinda enclave to the north — gives Portugal a unique position to control Congolese traffic.

A new dam at Cambame cost more than 35 million dollars and is considered to be second only to the UAR's Aswan Dam. It is already generating power.

Two thousand kilometers of roads are being pushed from the Atlantic towards the hinterlands. Light industry is being expanded. The German Krupp concern is backing the development of iron ore mines which may soon compete with Katanga's. Portuguese investors are urged to contribute toward Angolan development.

The small Portuguese are also encouraged to settle in Angola. Its population has been estimated at 4.8 million, of which some 250,000 are white and mulatto.

On the opposite side is populous Mozambique, roughly the size of Texas and South Carolina lumped together

Apart from its importance as an exporter of cotton, tea, tobacco, sugar, sisal, nuts and cattle, Mozambique is in a position to control a considerable amount of traffic bound for South Africa.

Its capital city of Lourenco Marques is the seaport closest to Johannesburg, the economic and industrial center of the Union of South Africa. As a result many shipments from the Orient consigned to Johannesburg, as well as freight not unloaded at Capetown, reaches the Transvaal by rail from Lourenco Marques.

Most, if not all shipments for Northern and Southern Rhodesia also are unloaded at Lourenco Marques or Beira, the latter connected by rail to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia.

Mozambique is believed to be about to assume a leading role in the Portuguese economic world, as large oilfields are said to have been discovered there. Added to Angola's mounting output — 337,227 tons last year — it could make Portugal self - sufficient in petroleum.

Lisbon is soft-pedalling excited reports from Lourenco Marques on oil finds. Homeland papers have had reports on the topic censored.

Task Before Pres. Johnson Is Great

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

On a sad day in 1945 a little-known radio announcer was describing the slow movement of President Roosevelt's funeral cortege down Pennsylvania Avenue. His voice choked as he mentioned the caisson bearing the body of the late president.

And then he saw an automobile in which was seated a bespectacled man with a grim look on his face, a man upon whom a monumental burden of responsibility suddenly had fallen.

As the announcer gazed at this man his voice broke and he tearfully said: "God bless President Truman."

The announcer was Arthur Godfrey. His feeling of grief at the unexpected death of a president and sympathy for the tasks facing the successor was typical of the sorrowful reaction at the time.

Today America is in a similar state of shock.

Many people—despite the glaring black headlines and the films and tapes unreeling on television —are still finding it difficult to believe that the boyish President John F. Kennedy is dead by will of an assassin.

And people of all parties are aware of the great weight that sudden death has put on the shoulders of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Leaders of both political parties have rallied to Johnson's side, but the next months will be difficult ones for the new chief executive.

Fortunately, Johnson is well equipped to assume the presidency. He was the great moving force in the Senate while he was majority leader and he had a way of getting things done.

He has much to do now in the months awaiting him.

Around The World Around The Clock

Baghdad, Iraq—Iraq's new government worked to restore normal conditions in this capital city where a lightning revolution installed a new 21-man coalition government to replace the old Baathist regime. Gen. Abdul Salam Aref, who led the Monday coup, remains as president.

Vatican City—The Ecumenical Council decided Thursday to permit the use of modern languages in the Roman Catholic sacraments, including baptisms and weddings.

Phnom Penh—The U.S. government breathed a small sigh of relief with the reports that neutral Cambodia would turn to France and not the Communist world in replacing American aid. Prince Norodom Sihanouk asked for an end to U.S. aid.

Leopoldville—Relations between the Soviet Union and the Congo faltered with the arrest and beating of two Soviet diplomats by soldiers of Premier Cyrille Adoula. One later was expelled from the country with promises that the other and the 100-man Soviet embassy would have to leave because of alleged Communist conspiring to aid a revolution.

Moscow—Soviet Premier Khrushchev added another twist in the confusing tangle of Soviet-U.S. relations by urging a joint effort to ease world tensions. His letter urging the peaceful settlement of disputes "despite differences in our social system" was sent two days after the expulsion from Russia of Yale Prof. Frederick Barghoorn who had been arrested and imprisoned on spy charges.

New York—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller came to an understanding with Republican Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania by promising not to seek pledges among the state's 64 GOP convention delegates. Scranton wants similar assurances from Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

GOP May Get To Vote For Speaker

By EDWIN S. CAPPS
Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — The controversial rule in the state assembly which prevents Republicans from voting for speaker likely will go by the boards when the legislature convenes next February.

This was the prediction of one Democrat in the assembly who has made no secret of his defiance of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh. He is Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton (D-Merced), one - time unsuccessful opponent of Unruh in the speakershind and, despite this emnity, still chairman of the important assembly committee on criminal procedures.

Winton, an attorney and former department commander of the American Legion, noted that the rule which bars the minority party from voting for speaker was adopted as a temporary rule during the special session last summer.

When the assembly is organized next February, the first order of business — before adoption of rules—will be election of speaker," Winton said. "If Unruh has the votes to be re-elected, which he probably will, one of his boys probably will make the motion that the speaker be elected by the majority vote of the house. This would throw out the rule that the speaker be elected only by the majority party.

If one of Unruh's people does not make such a motion, one of our will," Winton said.

The speaker normally has been elected by a simple 41 votes out of the 80 members of the assembly. During past sessions, the battle for speakership has been a bitter one. Disagreements during speakership battles have carried through the session.

Winton said he was not sure who might be an opponent of Unruh next year in the speakership election but he expected there might be one.

"It might even be me," he said.

Winton said it was taken more or less for granted that the 28 Republicans in the assembly would oppose Unruh's re - election. Another rule adopted at the time of the one preventing Republicans voting for the speaker barred Republicans from serving as chairmen or vice chairmen of committees.

"There are at least six or seven Democrats who will go against Unruh," Winton said. "This may be in the form of voting no or may be in the form of just not voting."

In the past Winton has not been too accurate in his predictions of votes, especially votes against Unruh. In the big contest when Unruh first was elected speaker in an unprecedented between - sessions caucus of the assembly, Winton again opposed Unruh in 1963, only to receive only his own vote.

Sinse the adoption of the two rules at the special session last summer, Unruh has agreed to drop the rules in return for a pledge by the Republicans that they would not take party positions on issues.

Of the four committees held by Republican chairmen, two have been combined with other committees; one's work has been taken over by the rules committee, and the fourth is still suspended.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1963 with 38 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1903, the Italian tenor Enrico Caruso made his American debut at the Metropolitan Opera in New York City.

In 1930, Henry Ford, an ardent supporter of the prohibition movement, refused to permit his English workmen to drink, even in their homes.

In 1945, all food rationing in the United States, with the exception of sugar, came to an end.

In 1954, the Chinese Communists said 11 American airmen arrested during the Korean War and two civilians had been convicted of espionage.

A thought for the day — Will Rogers said: "Everything is funny as long as it is happening to somebody else."

MARIN BRIDGE

By JOE CASTRO

San Rafael Policeman Steals Hand At Local Tournament

CASTRO

The San Rafael City Council appointed a new police lieutenant last week. We of the bridge world knew him as Sarge Link Borba.

Link has helped the Marin bridge clubs for years. He would help protect our money during our sectionals, and he always stays and helps club owners lock up.

Yes sir, Link Borba is a Dr. Jekyll to bridge clubs directors but as an opponent he is a Mr. Hyde.

EVERYONE thinks Link is an honest citizen but look how he connived with his partner, Ron Biacci of San Rafael, to steal an absolute top last Sunday at our unit masterpoint game.

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	P	3 ♣	P
3 ♥	P	3 NT	P
4 NT	P	5 ♥	P
6 NT	P	P	P

Let's do some explaining on the bidding as I can see some of you point counters and rule followers shaking your heads at the 3 club bid with only 14 HCP and the three no trump with a void.

STATEMENT No. 1 from Mr. Charles Goren: I give no rules for bidding eight card suits.

Statement No. 2 from Mr. Goren: My favorite hand for playing three no trump is a solid six card suit with three outside aces.

Statement No. 1 gives Link complete freedom to bid his eight card suit any way he sees fit and Link knows the value of an eight card suit.

Statement No. 2 I believe has an interesting corollary which would be as follows: My favorite hand for playing 6 no trump would be a solid eight card suit and four quick tricks.

The three no trump bid told Ron of a diamond stopper and that information plus the 19 HCP or its equivalent as announced by the 3 club bid was all Ron needed to know to bid 6 no trump for an absolute top.

MAYBE I don't really agree with all the bidding.

I have just presented their case for you, the jury, to decide and after all, Link was just promoted to lieutenant on the police force so I must tell you of the insane asylum inmate who just answered a difficult question to a motorist whose car had broken down:

I may be crazy but I'm not stupid.

No Favors, Please City Officials Rule

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — After paving the parking lot for a new apartment building, owner Bob Withers decided he would be doing everyone a favor if he used the excess asphalt to pave an access alley owned by the city. The volunteer project cost him $500.

City officials were unimpressed. Because Wither's paving didn't meet all specifications for city streets, the apartment owner was ordered to tear up his asphalt and restore the alley to dirt and gravel.

Who Will Be On New President's Staff?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hard-working, loyal—and Texans.

That perhaps best describes the staff President Lyndon B. Johnson is likely to take with him into the White House.

A couple are former vice presidential staffers who recently shifted to other posts in the administration, but who who may be called back for more personal service.

The key Johnson aides are:

George E. Reedy, 46, busy grey-haired special assistant and press chief for Johnson 12 years, is about the only one not claiming Texas as native soil. But he has lived intermittently in Austin serving LBJ. A Chicagoan, Reedy went to Johnson from the senate staff of United Press in 1951. He is regarded as the likely White House news secretary, assuming incumbent Pierre Salinger's departure. Reedy is married and has two children.

Walter Jenkins is the man longest in Johnson's Washington service, his administrative assistant as vice president and senator. Also in his 40s, Jenkins began working for Johnson when he was a House member. He is a native of Wichita Falls, Texas, and a University of Texas graduate. He is the father of five.

William Moyers, just under 30, now is deputy director of the Peace Corps and one most likely to be drafted back for White House duty. Moyers, who attended North Texas State and worked for the Johnson radio station in Austin, is highly regarded by the new president. From Fort Worth, he is married and has two children.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, another Texan, left an active job as a Washington news correspondent to handle Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson's press affairs in the 1960 campaign. She stayed on, helping the vice president as well as his wife on speech-writing and press chores. She was with the Johnsons in Dallas yesterday. She no doubt will be the new first lady's news secretary.

O. B. (Bill) Lloyd Jr., 49, is another ex-newsman and former staff worker in the vice president's office. Lloyd is now public affairs director in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. A Texan, too, although a graduate of Northwestern University, Lloyd was a veteran newsman when he joined Johnson's Washington staff. He has four children and is among those who might be called to White House duty.

Charles K. Boatner, 50, former city editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, served on the vice presidential staff for two years and then became chief of information for the U.S. Park Service in the Interior Department. Like Moyers and others now detached, he is on the list of possibilities for presidential assignment.

Mary Juanita Roberts and Marie Fehmer, both staff secretaries, have divided the main burden of work as Johnson's personal secretary in recent months. Miss Fehmer was with the Johnsons in Texas when tragedy moved him into the presidency.

Mrs. Willy Day Taylor, of Cameron, Texas, has been Reedy's assistant and a close family friend of the Johnsons.

Arthur Perry, who previously served the late Sen. Tom Connally, is an assistant on Johnson's staff and its oldest member.

Clifton C. Carter, another assistant, has been in charge of Johnson's Austin office.

Four Injured As Cars Collide In San Rafael

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in a two-car collision Thursday at Francisco Boulevard and Irwin Street in San Rafael.

Treated and released for minor cuts and bruises at San Rafael General Hospital were Mrs. Georgia Nelson Barnes, 32, of 104 Bella Vista, Tiburon; her daughter, Rachel Mary, four; Sally Ann Nelson, 16, sister of Mrs. Barnes, also residing at the Bella Vista address; and Betty Jean McClain, 35, of 612 Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax.

Police said Mrs. Barnes was driving east on Francisco and was in collision with the car driven by Betty Jean McClain, halted for a left turn onto Irwin.

Marin City Gymnasium Director Is Named

Daniel Winters has been named director of youth activities at the Marin City gymnasium, it was announced at Thursday night's meeting of the Marin City Community Services District. Winters, who lives at 99 Drake Avenue, will be paid $75 a month.

The gymnasium is open from 4 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. Harry N. Bailey formerly held the director's job.

Here Is Profile Of President Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson is a 6-foot, 3-inch Texan with a reputation as a man who gets things done.

He made his mark as the Democratic leader of the Senate with a dazzling performance as a behind-the-scenes operator who steered a middle course politically.

The 55-year-old president is a hard driver—of himself and of others. But when he is in a relaxing mood, he can charm the birds out of the trees.

During the years 1955 to 1961 when he was the Senate's majority leader and Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower was president, Johnson counseled his fellow Democrats against opposition for opposition's sake.

He urged a course of responsibility as best for his party and the country and preached the doctrine that reasonable men of good will can resolve their differences.

Johnson ran virtually a one-man show, serving as the Democratic floor leader, chairman of the Democratic conference, chairman of the party steering committee and chairman of the policy committee.

He was always a man on the move, nervous, fidgety and impatient. Whether in his office, his car or his home, he is apt to be on the telephone—talking, persuading, arranging.

After suffering a heart attack on July 2, 1955, Johnson quit smoking. He did not noticeably slow his pace despite his brush with death.

Some senators found his way of running the Senate hard to take. Mostly the criticism came from liberal Democrats resentful of Johnson's middle-of-the-road course.

Johnson is a man who likes to be liked and who is sensitive to criticism. He also has a streak of vanity, as shown when he tells photographers to take pictures only from his left side.

The new president was born in Stonewall, Tex., Aug. 27, 1908, and was educated at Southwest State Teachers College, San Marcos, Tex., and at Georgetown Law School.

He was married to the former Claudia—Lady Bird—Taylor in 1934. They have two daughters, Lynda Bird, 19, and Lucy Baines, 16.

Johnson was elected to the House from Texas in 1936. In 1948, at the age of 40, he was elected to the Senate. Four years later the Senate Democrats chose him as their leader. In 1960 he lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Kennedy, who then chose him for second place on the ticket.

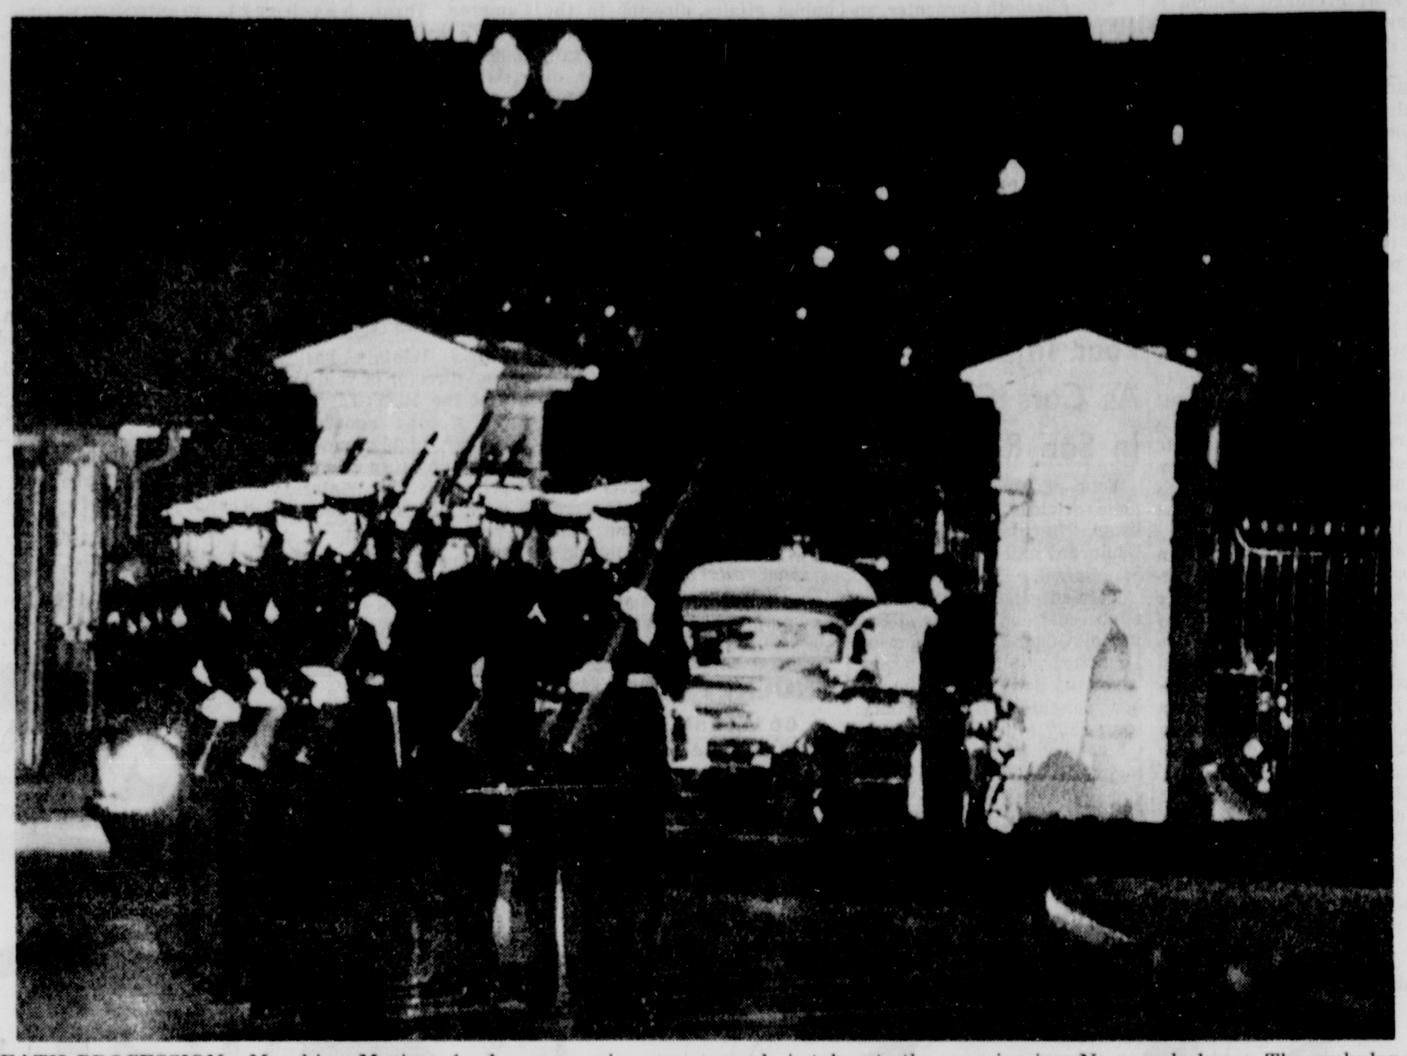
Nation Mourns Death Of President Kennedy

A SOLEMN PRESIDENT—President Lyndon B. Johnson leaves the White House on way to his old offices in the nearby Executive Office Building today. He started a first full day as Chief Executive today, following the assassination yesterday of John F. Kennedy. With the new President is Rep. Homer Thornberry (D-Tex.).



DEATH PROCESSION—Marching Marines lead a procession on the White House grounds early today as the body of John F. Kennedy is taken to the mansion in a Navy ambulance. The ambulance is entering the Northwest gate from Pennsylvania Avenue.

LAST EASTER SERVICE—The late President John F. Kennedy, his wife Jacqueline, and their children, John Jr. and Caroline, are shown as they left the Kennedy family home in Palm Beach, Fla., last April 14 where they attended a private Easter service. It was to be the last Easter service for the entire family.

JOHNSON SWORN IN—Lyndon B. Johnson is sworn in as president of the United States in the cabin of the presidential plane as Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy stands at his side. Judge Sarah T. Hughes, a Kennedy-appointee to the Federal Court (left), becomes the first woman to administer the oath of office. In the background are (from left): Jack Valenti, administrative assistant to Johnson; Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.); Mrs. Johnson, and Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.).

POPE PRAYS—Pope Paul VI prays in St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City today during mass celebrated by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella for the late John F. Kennedy, all cardinals who died during the past year and bishops who died during the Ecumenical Council.

PRESIDENT'S MOTHER—Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of the late John F. Kennedy, is shown entering St. Francis' Xavier Church in Hyannis, Mass., this morning to attend a memorial Mass for her son.

GRIEF-STRICKEN—California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown, tight-lipped, walks into conference room at state capitol in Sacramento yesterday, too grief-stricken at the time to talk to newsmen about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. (AP wirephotos)

Sports World Mourns Kennedy; Big Games Postponed

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

President Kennedy's assassination turned a festive weekend of football rivalries into one of mourning on the Pacific Coast today, with traditional contests postponed until next Saturday.

Action also came to a halt in the National Basketball Assn., the Western Hockey League and the American Football League. However, Sunday's games in the National Football League still were tentatively scheduled, and racing continued at Golden Gate Fields.

A spokesman for the Albany track said technical difficulties made it impossible to cancel yesterday's card and said today's racing would be held, unless a day of mourning for the late president was declared. He said the track would be closed on the day of Kennedy's funeral.

The great football "traditionals" of the West Coast, originally scheduled for today, will be held next Saturday, Nov. 30.

The Big Six classics—California vs. Stanford, USC vs. UCLA and Washington vs. Washington State — were set back, along with Oregon-Oregon State.

"Because of the national tragedy, we have unanimously agreed to postpone all games for one week until Nov. 30," said Norman Topping, president of the University of Southern California and chairman of the Big Six Chancellors' and Presidents' Committee.

Among other football postponements or cancellations were University of Pacific at San Jose State, San Diego State at San Francisco, Claremont-Mudd at Cal Tech, Long Beach State at Cal Poly of Pomona, Redlands at Whittier, San Fernando vs. Los Angeles State in the Rose Bowl, Pomona-Occidental, and Idaho State at Wichita.

The National Basketball Assn. games between San Francisco and Los Angeles—scheduled for San Francisco last night and Los Angeles tonight—were postponed. A spokesman said they probably would be made up in January.

President Al Leader of the Western Hockey League postponed all Hockey games scheduled for last night, tonight and Sunday. He said action would resume according to the schedule on Monday.

The postponed games included Denver at Los Angeles and Portland at Vancouver last night, Denver at San Francisco and Portland at Seattle tonight, and Denver at Portland and Los Angeles at Seattle Sunday.

The postponements by the American Football League included the Oakland Raiders at Denver and the Houston Oilers at San Diego.

Still tentatively scheduled in the National Football League were San Francisco at Green Bay and Baltimore at Los Angeles.

I-J Sports Scribe Says 'Adios' To Sad Situation In Bay Area

RANDOL

"Always leave 'em laughing." So reads the credo of show business, and it's a good finale if you can pull it off. Writing a column is not exactly show business, but there are similar elements present, including emotional factors.

This will be my last column for the year and, so help me, I can't find anything funny about it. Were it not for the exciting prospect of driving to Central America, starting next week, I would not like it even a little bit.

Now don't jump to conclusions. I'm not taking the way of the coward and running out on the 49ers just because they must face the Green Bay Packers tomorrow. But I'll bet some of the Niners would like to trade places with me right about now!

To all intents and purposes the football season ended today with all the "Big Games" all over the country. And none too soon as far as the local scene is concerned. No major team in the Bay Area is going bowling this year.

THE 49ERS, perforce, must run out their schedule, and the prospects are as gloomy as ever. We won't dwell on the immediate future. The brightest ray of hope seems to be that the Niners MUST be better next year; they can hardly be worse.

It hardly shows, but the Niners are already on the road back to prominence. There are some mighty fine young players getting experience (the hard way) right now. Next year will see the scythe of old age cutting four or five of the pensioners now suiting up, and the axe will chop off a few more.

THE RETURN of John Brodie and Bill Kilmer and the success of the 49er draft choices will tell the story. That, and the coach. A long shot guess would be that if Jack Christiansen doesn't get a renewal as head man, the offer will go to Phil Bengtson, Packer assistant.

Pro basketball is another kettle of fish. It will take two things to make the Warriors a going investment. First, a winning season. Second, a more colorful squad that is not overshadowed by the tall figure of Wilt Chamberlain. The future hangs in the balance.

One more year, two at the most, and big league ice hockey will be with us. If the addition of San Francisco and Los Angeles to the circuit can be accomplished without giving us hopeless losers from the start there is a great future for this most exciting sport.

A VERY few weeks and I'll be "scouting" the winter leagues for the baseball Giants. Tongue in cheek, Chub Feeney has commissioned me to sign up a goodie. With less cheek and more tongue, the Giant scouting department has asked for some serious reports.

So, it's off to the sunny South and a look at Latin baseball, soccer, and maybe a bullfight or two. Mix 'em all together and I should find a triple-threat pro footballer.

Adios, amigos, y hasta la vista!

HALL OF FAMERS

San Rafael, Novato Stars Win Awards

Rich Ahern, San Rafael tackle, and Roy Otis, Novato quarterback, were elected Marin winners for the San Francisco chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

The two boys won in competition with eight other entrants from Marin high schools. The awards are based on 40 per cent academic achievement, 40 per cent football ability and 20 per cent campus leadership and citizenship.

The awards are given annually in Marin to one lineman and one backfield man. Taking part in the balloting were Donald Kreps, principal at Redwood High School and president of the Marin Athletic League; Marlin Olsen, head grid coach at Novato High School, and Ralph Chatoian, Independent-Journal sports writer. The votes for Ahern and Otis were unanimous.

The four other backfield entrants were Mike Kemp, Drake quarterback; Paul Ackerman, Redwood fullback; Jim Sulger, San Rafael Military Academy tailback, and Wade Roberts, San Rafael High School quarterback.

Other nominated linemen were Cedric Collett, Tamalpais end; Jeff Cove, SRMA defensive end; Wayne Russell, Novato tackle, and Joel Tobiason, Redwood end.

Ahern, 17, is a 6-1, 195-pound senior. He's a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira R. Ahern of 154 Glen Park Avenue, San Rafael. He is a two-year letterman lineman who was voted on the Marin Athletic League All-League first team this year.

His overall grade point average at San Rafael High is 3.69. (A 3-point average is B and a 4-point average is straight-A.) Ahern, a member of the California Scholastic Federation, was senior class treasurer, congressman, justice of the student body court, and is a member of the Sportsmen's Club and the YMCA.

Otis, 17, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Otis of 777 Clausing Avenue, Novato. He stands 5-8 and weighs 155 pounds. A leader of Novato's offense, Otis was also an exceptionally good defensive halfback. He was voted honorable mention on this year's MAL All-League team.

A member of the California Scholarship Federation, Otis had the highest overall grade point of all nominees, a 3.94, practically a straight-A average. He is student body president for this semester and last semester was student body vice president. He was also treasurer of the Boys' League in the spring semester of 1962.

Ahern and Otis will receive their awards at a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame dinner Dec. 12 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco.

GREENBRAE LANES

Mays (Not Willie) Bowls 287 Game

Wally Mays — and we said Wally, not Willie—rolled the highest game of the 1963-64 season at Greenbrae Lanes, a 287, to top the league action for the past week.

Mays' big game was in the Northern California Merchants League on top of a 639 series. He started the game off with a spare, then hit 10 strikes in a row, and finished up with a seven-count on his last ball.

Jack Watson rolled a 654 series of three games (219-226-209) in the Nite Owlers League to win high series honors for the week at Greenbrae.

Marilyn Epidendio rolled a 619 series to top the action for the women. Her games were 201, 210 and 208 in the Hits and Mrs. League. Lu Sharp rolled a 245 game in the same league to win individual game honors. Grace Mueller rolled a 232 in the Ladies 600 Scratch League and Alice Chapman rolled a 222 in the Coffee Cuppers League.

Two Repeaters On Marin 'Dream Team'

For two members of the first team 1963 All-Marin Athletic League football squad, Novato fullback John Miller and Redwood guard Dennis Schunk, it was a repeat performance of 1962.

Both had been selected on the 1962 "Dream Team" by the coaches of the Marin Athletic League. The other junior on the 1962 team, Tamalpais tackle Bob Washington, didn't make it this year to the first squad, but was named to the second team.

Mike Crabtree, Drake end, was named to the second team All-League squad for the second straight year. The 1963 version of the All League first team has two juniors, Drake end Larry Stein and Terra Linda fullback Steve Frazzini, who will be trying again for big things next year in the league.

On the second team, all but a pair of Drake backs are seniors. Named to the second team this year with hopes of rising to the top team in '64 are halfback Dean Lazzarini, a sophomore, and fullback Joe DeMasi, a junior.

The ALL-MAL team selected by the coaches of the league:

FIRST TEAM

Pos.	Player	School	Wgt.	Hgt.	Year

49ers Face Fired Up Green Bay

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—San Francisco's 49ers beat the Chicago Bears and the Bears Stopped Green Bay twice—so are the 49ers favored to whip the Packers Sunday?

Hardly.

For the San Franciscans, doormats of the National Football League all season, will be running into a Packer club fired to the hilt after last week's loss to the Bears and in need of every possible victory to remain in the western division title race.

A regional telecast of the game to the West was cancelled after President Kennedy's assassination but NFL owners decided to play the seven scheduled games.

San Francisco has lost seven of its last eight games to the Packers and has won only two of ten starts this season. The Packers are 8-2 and trail division-leading Chicago by one game.

Quarterback Lamar McHan, whose ribs were injured in last week's 48-14 loss at the hands of the New York Giants, is expected to start tomorrow for the 49ers.

San Francisco's ground game failed miserably in New York as the 49ers' major offense again came from the long pass and the long kickoff return.

If the game is close, it figures to be a defensive struggle. Defense has been a relatively strong point for the 49ers most of the year, but the secondary has been badly burned the past two weeks.

Bart Starr is throwing for the Packers again after an injury sidelined him for several weeks.

Jim Taylor, Green Bay's power-driving fullback, is the rusher whom the 49er line must stop.

Second Round In M.V. Tournament Tomorrow

Nute Page, an insurance underwriter from Belvedere, leads a field of 50 golfers into the second round of the 54-hole Mill Valley City Golf Championships tomorrow at the M. V. muni links.

Page fired a two-over-par 69 last Sunday to take a one-stroke lead over his two closest competitors in the championship flight composed of 10 players. The other 40 in the field make up the first, second and third flights.

Following Page in the championship flight of last Sunday's first round were young Dennis Mori, the defending champion, and Terry Van Buskirk, each with a 70.

Competition in the 54-hole tournament is medal play. Final round is scheduled Nov. 30.

Other scores in the championship flight after 18 holes are Frank Lyman, 71; Paul Bauman, 72; Earl Brown and Jack Hurley, 73 each; Chet Howlett and John Thomas, 74 each; Al Cole, 75.

The championship flight will tee off starting at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Starting times and players in the other flights:

First Flight, 8 a.m. — Don Rutherford, Loyd Schutzman, Louis Mori, Elwood Frink Sr., Bob Warnick, Dr. Dave Schmidt, Spence Stillman, Keeler Nash, Verne Yank, Lou Long, Don Wolfe, Paul Taylor, Lt. Col. Philip Welchman, Russ Taylor, Bill Zepponi and Harold Michaels.

Second Flight, 8:50 a.m. — Dil Hughes, Hugh Corthell, Cliff Snow, Al Perlin, Rich Paterson, Hank Lauerty, Frank George, Tom Wallace, Jim Brown, Skip Larkins, Al Walton, Bill Canham, Dee Holcomb, Syl Auteri, Bill Cody, Elwood Frink Jr.

Third Flight, 9:20 a.m. — Tom McAuley, Al Perry, Sid Bradford, Ted Lemke, George Davenport, Jack Hamilton, Ned Weed and Charles Miller.

Builders Hopeful Of Revenge In E. Bay Tomorrow

Hopeful of revenge, the Billings-Hutchison Builders of Marin battle third-place Alameda Sporting Goods tomorrow in Alameda Winter Baseball League action at the East Bay city's Washington Park, 1 p.m.

In their last meeting the Alameda hosts handed the Builders their first shutout of the season, 3-0.

Builder Manager Joe Anselmo will start either right-hander Ron Cole or lefty Bob DeRosa on the mound.

The Builders' leading hitters to date are DeRosa (.563), Bill Heinz (.500), Jess Jacinto (.348), Jerry Ard (.333) and Ron Blum (.331).

Eight S.R. Men In Kart Races

Eight San Rafael drivers will be competing in a 50-mile kart endurance race tomorrow at the Petaluma clay kart track.

Drivers include Ray Bobo, Jim Snowden, Denver Wilson, Frank Pennington, Don Haney, Vic Hedemark, Bob Malini and Joe Newman.

The grueling 50-mile run draws karts and drivers from as far south as Bakersfield.

Marin Thanksgiving Is A Church Affair

Scores of Marin County churches will observe Thanksgiving with special services either Wednesday evening or Thursday morning.

Some of the programs will bring together members of several parishes in joint services. One such service has become a Marin tradition of exchange between San Anselmo and Ross.

This year members of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross will be hosts to members of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo. Rev. Henry Kuizenga of the Presbyterian church will give the sermon. The service is set at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The services have alternated between the two churches for many years.

Another joint service, not so long-established, will be repeated in the North San Rafael-Terra Linda area. This time members of seven churches will gather at the Faith Lutheran Church in Los Ranchitos for a thanksgiving service at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Ministers and choirs of the churches will participate.

Other churches beside Faith Lutheran are Christ Presbyterian Church, Terra Linda; First Congregational Church, San Rafael; Aldersgate Methodist Church, San Rafael; Episcopal Church of the Nativity, Marinwood; Baptist Community Church, Marinwood, and Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church.

In Southern Marin, the sembly of God Church, the First Baptist Church, and the the Tiburon Boulevard Baptist Church, and the Tamalpais Valley Community Methodist Church will join in an 8 p.m. service Wednesday at the chapel of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry. Dr. J. Winston Pierce, professor of preaching at the seminary, will give the sermon. Church choirs will sing.

Other Thanksgiving services by communities include:

San Rafael area: First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, 10 a.m. Thursday; Episcopal Church of Nativity, Communion 10 a.m. Thursday; Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Communion 10 a.m. Thursday; Trinity Lutheran Church, 10:30 a.m. Thursday; St. Raphael's Catholic Church, Masses at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 a.m.; St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Communion at 10 a.m., Thursday; First Methodist Church of San Rafael, 8:30 a.m., Thursday, and St. Isabella's Catholic Church, Masses at 6:30 and 9 a.m. Thursday.

Ross Valley area: Christ the Victor Lutheran Church, Fairfax, 11 a.m. Thursday; Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church, 10 a.m. Thursday; St. Anselm's Catholic Church, Masses at 6:25, 8 and 9 a.m. Thursday, First Baptist Church of San Anselmo, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday; St. Nocihoal Russian Orthodox Church, San Anselmo, Mass at 10 a.m. Thursday; Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Larkspur, 10 a.m. Thursday; Holy Innocents Episcopal Church, Corte Madera, Communions 8 and 10 a.m. Thursday, and Marin Lutheran Church, Corte Madera, 10 a.m. Thursday;

Southern Marin: Community Church, Mill Valley, 10 a.m. Thursday; Peace Lutheran Church, Mill Valley, 10 a.m. Thursday; Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Communions at 8 and 10 a.m.; First Missionary Baptist Church, Marin City, 11 a.m. Thursday; and Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito, Communion, 10 a.m.

Other areas: San Geronimo Community Church, 10 a.m. Thursday; St. Columba's Episcopal Church, Inverness, 11 a.m. Thursday; Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Novato, 10 a.m. Thursday, and First Southern Baptist Church, Novato, 9 a.m. Thursday.

LUTHERANS IN VOICE FOR CONCERT

The fourth annual Lutheran Choir Concert will be held at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in Chapel One at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Participating choirs are from Grace Lutheran Church and Good Shepherd Lutheran, of Novato; Faith Lutheran, Resurrection Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran, of San Rafael; Christ the Victor Lutheran of Fairfax; Marin Lutheran of Corte Madera, and Peace Lutheran Church of Mill Valley.

Seminarians Need Time For Thinking

United Press International

The church of the future may be seriously weakened if it doesn't give its hard-pressed ministerial students more time to think, a high Methodist official believes.

Dr. John O. Gross, general secretary of the Methodist Church's division of higher education, writes in the current issue of Christian Advocate that many seminarians today not only are students but husbands and pastors at the same time.

The result is that today's seminarian hasn't time for the reflection, wide reading and sound scholarship required to prepare for the ministry, and often falls into the habit of just "getting by."

Dr. Gross suggests that seminaries not require students to fill pulpits, now that half of them are married.

Avoid Western Turn

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Christian faith cannot allow itself simply to be identified with Western culture as its religious face," the Rev. Charles D. Kean, a Washington Episcopal pastor, writes in a new book, "That Hearing They Shall Perceive" (Seabury). He says Western culture cannot assume it has universal relevance.

INFANT DEBATE

Should Babes Come To Church Services?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The preacher kept talking. The infant wailed. A harried mother shushed. Some members of the congregation frowned. Others smiled inwardly. The curious gingerly cranned their necks to look.

Such moments are not uncommon in church.

The question occasionally arises—for parents and pastors — whether the younger tots should be brought into worship services where they may at times shatter the solemnities with unscheduled spontaneity.

"The children belong in church," says Rev. Ben B. St. Clair of Nashville, Tenn. "Part of their Christian nurture comes through their participation in corporate worship."

However, Rev William A. Lufburrow of Pittsburgh, Pa., suggests the squirmers and squallers are best left elsewhere.

"Worship services in small churches as well as large are plagued with the voices of crying and chattering children whose parents seem to take great delight in saying sh-h-h in the middle of the silent prayer," he says.

For churchgoers, reactions vary. Some are annoyed at any babble from babes in the sanctuary.

Says an elderly laywoman: "I go to church for a little peace and reflection, not to hear children blurting out, or shuffling and rattling papers in the pews."

But other worshipers find a warm glow of satisfaction in the obvious presence of the little ones. They maintain that Christianity is a full-gauge family affair, including its cares as well as its comforts.

"The church isn't supposed to be some rarefied, becushioned place cut off from actual life," says a layman. "Our reverence belongs in the midst of reality, and that includes kids."

In a round-robin discussion of the matter by Lufburrow and two other Methodist clergymen, published in a recent issue of the Methodist monthly, Together, the others favor the presence of children in worship.

"After all, God is their God, too," says Rev. Les Thompson, Jr., of Oklahoma City's Hillcrest Methodist Church.

St. Clair of Nashville's West End Methodist Church, says that although worship services are on "an adult level," children can gain benefits "by the process of absorption.

Evensong Concert In Ross Church

An evensong choir concert, sponsored by the Senior Choir of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at St. John's Episcopal Church, Ross.

The St. Paul's Choir and Terra Linda Chorus will be accompanied by the organ and orchestra at St. John's. Barry Mineah, organist and choir director at St. Paul's, will direct the program.

Talk By Missionary

Rev. Ralph Hiatt of Colfax, Placer County, recently named for missionary work in Argentina, will speak at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Southern Marin Assembly of God Church in Mill Valley.

Clothing Drive Begins

Catholic churches throughout Marin will be received donations of clothing during the coming week in the annual Thanksgiving clothing drive. The clothes will be sent to needy children and adults overseas.

Santa Venetia Dance

The Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacrament in Santa Venetia will hold its annual dance in the parish hall next Saturday evening. The dance is sponsored by the men's club and the women's guild.

MURDER VICTIM

Kenneth McClellan, playing Archbishop Thomas Becket in T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral," will be the victim when the play comes to St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere at 8 p.m., Dec. 15. Episcopal churches of Marin are sponsoring the production. It will be staged by members of the Cathedral Civic Theater.

MAYBE IT TAKES AREA CODE NOW

Don't bother calling the dial-a-prayer number listed at the end of the church directory in the yellow pages of the Marin telephone book.

All you get these days is a recorded voice announcing politely but firmly:

"I'm sorry, but the number you have called is not in service at this time. If you need assistance, please stay on the line and the operator will help you."

Bartlett Named Associate Pastor In Mill Valley

Rev. Jack Bartlett has recently been appointed associate minister at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Bartlett is a native of Binghamton, N. Y. He attended Harvard and the Pacific School of Religion. He served as student assistant in the Mill Valley church several years ago.

For the past three years he has worked with the migrant ministry program for the National Council of Churches in Bakersfield.

Ousters Over Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three ministers in Disciples of Christ (Christian) churches were forced out of their pulpits in August and September for favoring racial integration, Barton Hunter, administrative head of the church's civil rights committee, reports. He said a special church committee has been set up to aid ministers subjected to such problems.

Drive-In Worship Expands

ESCONDIDO (UPI)—The Community Reformed Drive-in Church, third such church in Southern California, will be built here at a cost of $400,000, Rev. Richard Huls has announced.

Huls said bids for the structure, which will accommodate 60 cars on a five-acre site and provide seating for 300 persons in an adjacent fellowship hall, will soon be opened.

Services will be conducted from a glass-enclosed pulpit on the side of the hall that will allow the minister to see churchgoers in cars as well as in the hall. Loudspeakers concealed in shrubbery throughout the parking area will carry the ministers voice to motorized worshipers.

"Drive-in churches appeal to people who don't like conventional-type churches, those who get upset when they are in crowds and the physically handicapped," Huls said. His parishioners presently hold services in the Escondido Drive-in Theater.

The parking lot will be built to allow for eventual expansion to 160 cars.

Other drive-in churches are located in Garden Grove and Long Beach.

Pope Takes Move To Favor Liberal Group At Council

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has intervened in the Ecumenical Council in support of liberal bishops who feel that their efforts to attain church reform are being stymied by a small minority of conservatives entrenched in key council offices.

Thursday he ordered the election of additional members to the theological commission, headed by conservative leader Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, and other commissions which are responsible for preparing documents for the council fathers to vote on.

Vatican officials said the effect of the move will be to make the commissions more truly representative of the council's liberal majority, and more responsible to its will.

The Pope's move was announced at a dramatic council session which also included these major developments:

—The council fathers voted 1,848 to 335 to authorize unrestricted use of modern languages instead of Latin in the administration of sacraments such as baptism, confession, and marriage. This vote was a liberalization of an earlier council decision, which required that Latin be retained for the "essential verbal formula" of a sacrament.

—By a vote of 1,966 to 86, the fathers gave general approval to the basic outlines of a document on Christian unity, which recognizes that the spirit of Christ is authentically at work in non-Catholic churches. It bids all Catholics to get to know their Protestant and Orthodox brethren better.

—Postponed a showdown on whether to include in the Christian unity document additional chapters dealing with the Jews and religious liberty.

Sources close to the American hierarchy, which has been supporting the statements on Jews and religious liberty, expressed confidence that the council will act on them in some fashion, if not at the present session then certainly at next year's session. One would make clear that all mankind — not just the Jews — shares in the guilt for the crucifixion of Christ. The other would put the Catholic church on record for the first time in favor of freedom of religion, even for non-Catholic minorities in Catholic countries like Spain.

Pope Paul's reshuffling of council machinery was welcomed by the liberal wing, although he did not go as far as some bishops had suggested. They wanted him to make a clean sweep of the present commissions, firing Cardinal Ottaviani and other Curia conservatives from the key chairmanships.

Instead, the Pope ordered the commissions expanded to 30 members each (most of them have 25 now). He reserved the right to name one of the new members of each commission with the rest to be elected by the council.

Church In Schools In Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—Half of West Germany's children are separated in grade school by religion, although parochial schools like those in the United States hardly exist.

There are publicly supported grade schools for Catholic children and publicly supported grade schools for Protestant children. Catholic classes are taught by lay Catholic teachers, and Protestant classes by lay Protestant teachers.

Different textbooks are used to reflect the different beliefs.

The other half of the nation's more than five million children attend grade schools together, without regard to their religion. Each of the 10 states determines its own type of school system. Some provide only separate schools, some only mixed schools, and some a combination of the two systems.

Private grade schools are allowed under special circumstances and are very rare.

The situation is different with high schools. Of these 12 per cent are private and mostly denominational, but 70 to 80 per cent of their expenses are met by public funds. The rest are state run and completely secular, as are all universities.

Schools divided by religion date to the Kaisers. Adolf Hitler ended them, but they were reintroduced after World War II by the Christian Democratic party under Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. This party receives heavy support from West Germany's Catholics. The Catholic Church favors the separate schools.

One-third of the expenses of all grade schools are paid by local communities, which own the buildings. The other two-thirds of the money comes from the states, which appoint the principals and teachers and supervise administration.

Children in all the states start the school day with a prayer, hymn, or Bible reading. All grade schools offer two to four hours a week of religious instruction, either Protestant or Catholic or both. Attendance is voluntary, and about 6 per cent of the children stay away.

Although West Germany is divided about equally between Catholics and Protestants, Catholic grade schools far outnumber the Protestant grade schools. There are 1,925,145 Catholic children in such schools and 820,074 Protestant children.

Minister Fails To Find Bias He Expected

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A South African minister, back home from a study tour of the United States, says he never met the bitter prejudice toward the Negro he had expected to find.

Rev. C. W. Parnell, pastor of the Johannesburg Baptist Church, said he deliberately looked for prejudice against Negroes.

"I hoped I would meet some rabid segregationists," he said, "but, although I met hosts of people, not one revealed himself to me as sympathetic to the Ku Klux Klan or anything of that type."

He say that may have been due to the fact he moved in circles related to churches. He added that the thought of many Americans seemed to be: "We are working toward integration. It has to come. We are not satisfied with our present race relations."

People told him of tremendous strides, led and inspired by Southern whites, since the war. They argued: "You cannot hurry changes in human relations. The real trouble is that the Kennedy brothers and others want us to move too fast. It is that compulsion which causes trouble."

Parnell said segregation of restaurants in Nashville, Tenn., ended while he was in that city. "Although I lunched or dined in one of these restaurants every day during my 5-week stay there, I did not see a single Negro demonstration. The transition passed unnoticed by most people and very few Negroes bothered to take advantage of their new liberty. The protest appeared to be a matter of principle rather than a desire to eat at the restricted restaurants," he said.

"The Negroes simply did not want to be treated as different from the whites. This, of course, is the basic motivation in all color protests."

Parnell's views were published in the Johannesburg Star.

Chance For U. S. Saint

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigation has begun into the life of the first American-born priest to be considered for beatification by the Roman Catholic Church. He is the Rev. Thomas A. Judge, founder of two religious communities and a Catholic lay action group, who died here 30 years ago.

Growing Mission Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Additional Roman Catholic missionaries sent abroad from the United States this year—568 of them—raises the total of such Catholic workers in other lands to 7,714, the Mission Secretariat reports.

NEW GLENWOOD

UNIT 6

SEVEN DISTINCT PLANS

"THE CASTLEWOOD"

One of our most popular 3 bedroom plans. Lovely sunken living room highlighted by a raised hearth, floor-to-ceiling fireplace and picture window. Family room with indoor barb-cue, extra large kitchen-dining area. Just right for the growing family. $26,800.

"THE BRENTWOOD"

Something unusual in subdivision home building—5 full bedrooms, large family room with fireplace, spacious family-style kitchen-dining, formal living room, 2 baths. Where in Marin County can the large family find so much usable living area for this price? $30,950 & $31,500.

"THE MAPLEWOOD"

An all-time favorite—The roomy two-story plan—Making a strong comeback on the present day home market. This home features 3 large bedrooms plus a den(or 4th bedroom). Formal dining room as well as informal dining area. Cheery family room with built-in wet bar, inside laundry room, & 2½ baths. Compare the value and space. $29,500.

"THE BRIARWOOD"

A very functional 4 bedroom 2 bath home that is comparable in many ways to our 5 bedroom model. It has a formal living room completely separated from the family room. Attractive Swedish fireplace in some models. The spacious kitchen arrangement is a favorite with the housewife. $28,160.

"THE ALDERWOOD"

A roomy 3 bedroom home with large bedrooms and lots of closet storage. Family room with large raised fireplace. $27,200.

"THE BAYWOOD"

Large 4 bedroom home with sunken living room, floor-to-ceiling raised hearth fireplace, with bar-b-cue in family room. Large baths. Lots of value. $28,500.

"THE FERNWOOD"

Luxury plus, with emphasis on lots of living area. Large living room, even larger family room. Fireplace & bar-b-cue. Inside laundry-utility room. $28,600

From Highway 101 take San Rafael turnoff at Irwin St., right on Third St. for approx. 2½ mi. to Glenwood. Enter on Knight Dr., left on Robinhood, right on Brentwood, left on Briarwood to model homes.

NOTICE TO PAY ASSESSMENTS SAN RAFAEL MEADOWS SEWERAGE PROJECT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that all owners of real property liable to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of the acquisitions and improvements described in Resolution of Intention No. 424 adopted by the Sanitary Board of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District on September 25, 1963, are hereby notified that on November 15, 1963, the assessment and diagram to pay the costs and expenses of said acquisitions and improvements was recorded in my office and in the office of the County Surveyor of the County of Marin.

Said assessments are due and payable immediately at the office of the Secretary, 300 Smith Ranch Road, San Rafael, California, and must be paid within the period expiring December 16, 1963.

In the event of the failure to pay before the expiration of said period, serial bonds to represent the unpaid assessments and bearing interest at the rate of not to exceed six per cent (6%) per annum will be issued pursuant to the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, the last installment of which bonds shall mature not to exceed four (4) years from the second day of July next succeeding ten months from their date.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Infants' eyes are not coordinated and often stray during the first six months of life. But children with true cross-eye will not outgrow the condition. This means it is important to recognize this imbalance early because much can be done to preserve sight.

But it is easy to make a wrong diagnosis, considering the number of babies and toddlers who are thought to be cross-eyed. Certain facial features common to infants may be responsible for the confusion.

THE BROAD nose bridge and prominent folds at the inner corners of the eyes may give the false impression that one eye, and then the other, is out of line, depending upon whether the baby is looking to the right or left. This mistake is avoided by watching the position of light reflected from the pupil.

It should be in the center when the gaze is following the light or is fixed on it. The reflected light will be off center in the straying, or cross-eye. Be certain the baby is looking at the light before making final judgment.

TRUE STRABISMUS is an imbalance between the muscles that rotate the eyeballs. This condition is known by various terms: cross-eye, wall-eye, cast, squint, tropia, and heterotropia. The end result is that both peepers do not focus on the same point at the same time. The baby sees double, but not for long because the seeing mechanism of the eye that is on focus develops but the image produced by the other eye is shut out. This eye may become blind eventually if visual development has not been stimulated for years.

The screen, or cover test, can be used to detect cross-eye in older children. The youngster is asked to fix his gaze on a light or on one object. One orb is covered with a narrow card. Should the uncovered eye move to a new position to focus on the light or object, we can assume it is out of line. If it does not move when the other is covered, presumably that eye is on target.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

BROODING UPON RABIES

W. B. writes: I was bitten on the leg by a dog four months ago and the wound has healed. Have I passed the incubation period for rabies, as my doctor assures me?

REPLY

For practical purposes, yes, because the average incubation period for rabies is six to nine weeks. You did not mention whether the dog had rabies.

CARDIAC ASTHMA

L. B. R. writes: What could a first attack of asthma at age 62 be due to? So far as I know, I'm not allergic to anything.

REPLY

Cardiac asthma may be responsible. This condition causes symptoms that are somewhat similar to those of bronchial asthma. But heart failure, rather than allergy, is the cause.

NAVEL RUPTURE

Mrs. J. W. writes: Since my husband died, I've cried so much I think I have ruptured my navel. Will a binder help or do I need an operation?

REPLY

Take your choice but make certain of the diagnosis before you do anything.

LOW CHOLESTEROL

Mrs. N. writes: I know a high cholesterol level in the blood can be serious, but is a low cholesterol harmful in any way?

REPLY

Only if it is secondary to another condition such as overactivity of the thyroid gland.

Bridge Reopens For Mill Valley Traffic

Mill Valley's La Goma Avenue bridge, closed several months after it had sunk about four inches below street level, has been rebuilt and was reopened yesterday to traffic.

Paving is yet to be done, said City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, who adds that Eggers and Son Nurseries will also do some landscaping around the bridge.

Model U.N. Group Elects Chairman

The newly formed model United Nations group at Redwood High School has elected senior Faye Brown chairman.

Under direction of American government teacher Marge Neubauer, the club's first project will be to represent Algeria in the Model United Nations at Berkeley at the end of the semester.

Drugs Stolen From Two Doctors' Cars

Thieves, working in broad daylight, yesterday stole medical equipment and drugs from two doctors' cars parked in the parking lot of San Rafael General Hospital.

The first theft occurred between 9:45 and 10:30 a.m., Dr. Harry Otto Mund of 558 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, told police.

The trunk to his car was pried open and instruments, including hypodermic needles, syringes and heart stimulants were taken.

Small amounts of morphine and nembutol were in two medical bags in the rear of the unlocked car of Dr. William Anthony Galeno of 50 Alta Vista Way, San Rafael.

Galeno said the bag was taken from where it sat on the rear floorboards of his car between noon and 2:30 p.m. Also in the bags containing examining equipment was a pad of prescription blanks.

$158 Drill Taken

Theft of a $158 electric drill from the car of Daniel James Carter of San Francisco while parked at 95 Medway Road yesterday was reported to San Rafael police.

Bid Renewed On Fairfax Multiple Zone

Another request for rezoning the 18-acre site above the Jolly Store in Fairfax was received by the Fairfax Planning Commission Thursday night.

The commission set a public hearing on the request for rezoning from single family to apartments for Jan. 30. The request for construction of 130 houses, duplexes and apartments was denied on Oct. 24.

Chairman Dan M. Miller said the request for rezoning was presented this time by the developers, Dunn-Weddell Co., with restrictions. The restrictions include planning commission control on architectural design, height of buildings and percentage of ground covered by buildings.

The project was previously rejected by the planning commission on the grounds that there would not be enough control over development.

The commission voted to rezone the property on which Rubini's Restaurant is located at 10 Olema Drive, Fairfax, from limited commercial to apartments.

The commission will meet for a study session on Dec. 4. Amendments to the zoning ordinance, a slope policy and a planned development zone will be discussed.

Body May Have Been Placed Later

The body of little Doreen Heskett, 5, former resident of Napa, may have been left in the Napa hay field three months after she disappeared March 29.

Napa County District Attorney James D. Boitano said dairy rancher Earl Stewart told him the hay crop on the field where Stewart found the body was harvested in June.

"If she had been there when we harvested, I don't see how we could have missed her," Stewart said.

'Highlights Of '63' Theme of School Rally

"Highlights of '63" will be the theme of a Redwood High School junior class rally Dec. 11 and 12 in the school's Little Theater.

Kerry Warnock and Janet Rigsbee are directors. The performance will include acts on the quintuplets, the 50-mile hike, surfing and a hootenanny.

Sausalito Rec Unit Asks Funds, Summer Program

Sausalito recreation commissioners Thursday night recommended to the city council approval of an eight-week summer recreation program and requested funds for it.

The program, recommended to the commission by the Central-Bayside Parent-Teacher Assn., would probably be conducted at Central School for youngsters from kindergarten to eighth-grade age next June 29 to Aug. 21.

It is proposed that two directors, a man and a woman, be hired. The association pledged $50 and said support has also been promised by two Sausalito churches and the Richardson Bay P-TA.

The commission asked the city council to try to get use of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's freight depot for a teen-age center should it become available through lease expiration.

Shocked Reaction From Japanese Destroyer Capt.

SHIOKAWA, Japan (AP)—The Japanese destroyer captain whose ship almost killed John F. Kennedy in 1943 said today, "The world has lost an irreplaceable man for there is no other president who worked for peace like he did."

Kohei Hanami, new Shiokawa town chief, heard the news from a friend who ran to his house before dawn.

"It was so sudden," Hanami said. "I have sent my condolences to the Kennedy family through U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer."

Hanami was a 34-year-old lieutenant commender when his destroyer, The Amagiri—"Heavenly Fog"—rammed and sank Kennedy's PT109 on a dark August night off the Solomon Islands. Kennedy was a 26-year-old lieutenant.

Democratic Club Sets Course On Politics

The Greater San Rafael Democratic Club will sponsor an eight-week "Action Course in Practical Politics" in conjunction with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce at the Civic Center, starting Dec. 4 at 8 p.m.

Speakers will include Roger Kent, chairman of the Northern California Democratic Central Committee; County Supervisor Byron Leydecker, Mrs. Vera Schultz of Mill Valley, Mrs. Elaine Guthrie, and Novato City Councilman Roberd Carrow, who will conduct the course.

Shotgun Is Stolen

Theft of a 20-gauge shotgun from the carport of Michael H. Schwartzkoph of 119 Highland Avenue, Mill Valley, sometime Thursday night was reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday.

STUDENT ART ON VIEW

Paintings and sculpture will be on view at the art gallery of San Rafael High School from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow. Previewing the student art show, which was opened to the public today, was Karen Jensen (left) and Leslie Stephens, both juniors at the high school. The sculpture in the foreground, by Charolette Baker is entitled, "To Grow." (Independent-Journal photo)

OBITUARIES

Catharina Machado Dies At 96

Catharina Machado, 142 Villa Avenue, San Rafael, a resident of Marin County for 67 years, died in a local hospital yesterday after a long illness. She was 96.

Mrs. Machado, a native of the Azores, was the widow of Manuel B. Machado, who died in 1923. He was a mate on a whale boat that was based at San Francisco.

Mrs. Machado came to San Francisco from the Azores in 1890. A few years later she moved to San Rafael. There was one daughter who died when she was four years old.

Mrs. Machado lived for many years with a niece, Emily Garcia at the Villa Avenue address. She leaves several other nieces and nephews.

She was a member of SPRSI No. 19 of San Rafael and Young Ladies' Institute No. 52 of San Rafael.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church. The funeral cortege will leave Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael, at 9:15 a.m. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at the mortuary.

ADELE PODA

Funeral services for Adele May Poda, 79, of 46 Woodland Avenue, San Anselmo, were held today at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Poda, wife of Philip L. Poda, died at a local hospital Wednesday after a long illness. Cremation was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

EDITH VELASCO

Mrs. Edith M. Velasco, 63, of 15 Manor Road, Fairfax, died unexpectedly yesterday at a local hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage.

She was the widow of Vincent Velasco and the daughter of Pietro Marchetti of Fairfax. A native of San Francisco, and a longtime resident of Southern California, Mrs. Velasco had lived at the Marchetti home in Fairfax for the past five years.

She was the clothing leader for the Ross Valley 4-H Club.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Darlene Velasco of Fairfax, a son, Arthur V. Velasco of Arcata, Humboldt County; her father, two sisters, Mrs. Irene Stewart of Pasadena and Mrs. Hilda Musso of San Francisco and three grandchildren.

A rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel in San Rafael.

A Requiem Mass will be said at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Burial will be Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Old Folks' Home Blaze Claims 60

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—About 60 persons were trapped and killed in a fire today at a nursing home for the aged and infirm in Fitchville, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

A patrol spokesman said the blaze swept through the one-story concrete home in the predawn hours. Eighty-four patients were reported residing at the home when the fire broke out.

Twenty-one patients and three nurses were safely accounted for at Fisher-Titus Hospital in Norwalk.

DEATH TOLL

Fitchville is a community of about 200. It is 20 miles southeast of Norwalk, the Huron County seat.

Huron County Deputy Sheriff Jim Wade said the death toll would be "very close to 60."

No bodies had been removed from the still-smouldering building more than four hours later. Authorities feared many of the victims would be burned so severely as to make identification almost impossible.

The home is the Golden Age Nursing Home. Its patients are mostly elderly persons, but there are some who are mental and infirm patients of a young age.

10 YEARS OLD

E. H. Woods of Cleveland, who is head of Retirement Hotels, said he built the home 10 years ago, but sold it two years ago to Robert Pollock of Cleveland.

"That home was supposed to be fireproof," Woods said. "I can't understand how it happened. Everything is concrete block."

Woods said the home was for persons who were infirm and many were mental patients who had been discharged from state hospitals. He said the youngest patient was 38 and there were some as old as 100.

A fire in Atlantic City, N. J., Monday took the lives of 25 elderly guests in the frame, Surfside Hotel.

IN MARIN COUNTY OF THE early 1900s, Thanksgiving Day was observed largely in the churches, where special worship services were customary, and in the homes, where family gatherings were held. With improved transportation, sometimes those gatherings were large. But often, as pictured above in the sketch by Paul Miller, the group around the table and the turkey was confined to the immediate family. To round out the day, there was perhaps a football game in the afternoon as entertainment. W. T. Ortmann shares his recollections of those early-day Thanksgivings on this page.

Looking Back At Thanksgiving Past

By W. T. ORTMANN

Our early Spanish-Californians had no one special day of Thanksgiving. But they had many days of worship honoring various saints.

Such days were usually the occasion for fiestas. And on such dates, solemn masses were celebrated in the churches.

Sports and feasting were also part of the celebrations, and sometimes those festivities lasted, not one day, but a week.

THE SPANISH in California at first looked upon the American custom of setting aside one autumn day each year for a special thanksgiving for the produce of the land with indifference.

But soon, the Spanish-Californians came to accept the "day of thanks" and the holiday became a universal one in California. Religious services were held at churches and at missions. And after the services, families would gather around a bounteous table. And frequently, then as now, roast turkey was the principal dish and pumpkin pie the dessert.

But the Spanish, too, added their touch to the table fare, particularly on the ranches where the produce of the land was plentiful.

THERE, OFTEN, cattle were slaughtered and the whole beef barbecued along side a whole hog. And the Spanish women would be busy a week in advance turning meal into dough and dough into tortillas which would then be wrapped around a filling of ground beef and pork mixed with onions, red pepper and dried beans that had stewed for hours.

By the turn of the century, when I came to San Rafael as a boy, a certain urbanity had reached the town. The celebration of the harvest continued, but it had taken on a more solemn tone.

The celebration was by then confined largely to within the church and within the home where family and friends gathered. Sometimes those family gatherings were large — and sometimes, when loved ones lived at a great distance — small.

The day started with the family taking a leisurely stroll to the church of their denomination.

THE LARGEST queue was lined up before St. Raphael's Church on the site of the Mission San Rafael Arcangel. There the good Father Thomas Phillips officiated over the day's services. He had just succeeded Father Hugh Logan in San Rafael.

On the corner of Fifth and E streets, the congregation ascended the steps of the Presbyterian Church for the 11 o'clock services. And similar scenes took place at other churches all over town.

When church services ended, the younger church-goers hurried home for a quick snack before heading for the football game in the ballpark at the corner of Fourth and Irwin streets. The big dinner would come later. The Spanish liking for holiday sports had survived, but the rodeo of the rancho had given way to the American game of football as the dominant sport for the holiday.

THE MANY Spanish families still living in San Rafael had, by then, accepted the American Thanksgiving Day traditions. But you could still catch the scent of tortillas and sauces coming from many kitchens.

My first real recollection of a Thanksgiving Day goes back beyond my residence in San Rafael. It occurred in 1894 and was observed on the Healdsburg ranch of my grandfather.

Those memories are faint now. But I do recall shocked corn, yellow pumpkins laying among the stacks of fodder, the large orchard, the festoons of red peppers which grandmother had strung near the water gourd to dry in the sun, the butchering and the smoking and pickling of meat by the Indian help. And I remember how the churches of Healdsburg were customarily decorated for Thanksgiving services by priests and ministers with produce from the outlying farms — shocks of corn, sheaves of wheat, pumpkins, baskets of apples, etc.—so that the congregation could see, even as it worshipped, the fruitfulness of the earth for which they were giving thanks.

WHEN ONE thinks back to Thanksgiving Days long past, one remembers the fragrance in the autumn air of roasting turkey and hot mincemeat pie, the suet pudding and its hard sauce, the fruit cake which mother had so generously laced with rum.

One also remembers the church services, and a general prevalent feeling of brotherhood.

We can all of us be thankful for Thanksgiving Day, and the fact that its spirit and observance have remained unchanged in at least some respects through the decades.

ARCHITECT ROBERT WILBERT FREDERICK SEVERIN becomes skipper Bob Severin as he skillfully maneuvers his 37-foot cruiser En Avant out of Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor. Boating is the favorite hobby of Severin and his wife, Jean. The interest carries over into Severin's civic thinking, for he feels that Marin and the entire Bay Area is "missing the boat" in not pushing hard for better harbors and boating facilities. (Independent-Journal photo)

Meet Bob Severin—Man With Ideas

Profile Of A Marinite

By WAT TAKESHITA

Imagine boating regattas in Marin, with San Anselmo matched against San Rafael or Sausalito.

And the whole thing winding up in a grand concourse in Richardson and San Francisco Bay, like the colorful Gold Cup Race in Seattle.

Far-fetched? Maybe so. But San Rafael architect Robert Wilbert Frederick Severin, 54, doesn't think so.

HERE'S A man who has stepped out beyond his immediate professional realm as a member of the American Institute of Architects to take part in civic activities, both for San Rafael and for the county. Many of his ideas have been accepted.

Sometimes he has gone out on the limb and had the limb chopped behind him. But Severin takes it all with a chuckle and goes on to the next.

What about this boating idea?

"It's unfortunate," says Bob Severin, "that the word 'pleasure' is always attached to boating. Sure, it's partly pleasure. But I call it industry."

THIS IS why: The amount of taxes paid on boats is only a small percentage of the tax base. But don't overlook the by-products — yacht harbors, dredging, launching, and the thousands of outside tourists that Marin could attract if it had adequate facilities for boats to tie up.

Take Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor for example, says Severin. Say there are 300 boats, each valued at $10,000. That would be three million dollars in boats alone, not to mention allied facilities. That is equivalent to a subdivision of 150 homes of the $20,000 category. A subdivision requires police and fire protection, schools, streets, gutters and other utilities.

"But boats ask for nothing; this is big business."

"I'M A LITTLE disappointed someone hasn't come forward to push this boats and harbors idea. With this marvelous body of water, why in the world couldn't we divide the bay into four districts—Marin, East Bay, Peninsula and San Francisco—and have racing competition? At the end of the season, we could have a grand boating regatta."

By-products of such a regatta might be enormous, the architect points out — people coming in to spend vacations, eating in restaurants, buying at shops. "But aside from a few private berthing spots, there isn't a dock around here where visitors can come as a group and tie up."

Many of his other ideas have already taken shape.

CASTLE PARK Apartments in Hollywood, a series of Oriental style apartments on a 45-degree hill, is a sample of Severin's work. It is at the end of North Sycamore, where the old Burnheimer Gardens Estate was formerly located.

In Marin County Severin was one of the architects for Terra Linda's first homes in the early 1950s. The designs were publicized nationally and featured in Sunset and other magazines.

Five years ago, he envisaged a shopping center in the Terra Linda area, specifically where Fairchild is now located. Today, the Northgate Shopping Center is going up a short distance away.

HE IS ON the team of designers for San Rafael's new city hall on Fifth Avenue. He succeeded Rolland Hammond as designer of the Loch Lomond shopping and commercial center.

When a block on Fourth Street burned between D and E Streets, Severin was one of those who pushed for a master plan for renovation. He succeeded only partially—in the Linggi, Schwartz and Stern and Scheiner Buildings. His architectural office is located at 1414 Fourth Street, in the Stern and Scheiner Building.

A storm of controversy erupted over Severin's idea of an A Street Promenade in the middle of San Rafael. He went so far as to build a scale model, donating it to the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

HIS PLAN would have blocked off A Street from

"Should My Knit Cotton Be Washed Or Cleaned?"

It's usual to feel that all cottons may be washed without trouble; however, many jersey knit cottons currently on the market show a tendency to shrink whether washed or drycleaned.

Textile manufacturers stabilize washable cotton knits with a resin finish, however. If the cotton knit has not been dimensionally stabilized in manufacture, excessive shrinkage may result.

Even resin-treated cotton knits after careful drycleaning may shrink in varying degrees. This is due to the gradual removal of the resin finish through repeated cleanings. If the cotton knit has not been treated by the manufacturer, it may shrink excessively no matter how it is cleansed. Once this occurs to an unstabilized fabric the original size cannot be restored.

It is well not to trust your cotton knit to mechanical cleansing. You may lose color as well as size. Your professional drycleaner knows how to handle these knits. Call on him to use his skill in keeping your cotton knits attractive and wearable.

THIS DREAM CRUMBLED, but architect Robert Severin has come up with others to take its place as he keeps plugging away for ideas which he feels will make Marin County a better community. Here he is gazing wistfully at a scale model he made of one of his favorite projects—an A Street Promenade for downtown San Rafael. This idea fell through, but others have not. the San Rafael Mission to Albert Field, making that a pedestrian promenade. Severin's idea was this: San Rafael is a one-street town. Let's cross it in the center and a shopping area should mushroom around it.

"But it got so controversial, I had to stop talking about it."

Severin looks not only into the future but into the past for ideas.

Remember the good old Saturday parades and the ferris wheels and merry-go-rounds?

He probably had that in mind when he came up one year with a Christmas season plan to block Fourth Street to traffic and make one big pedestrian mall, with side streets for parking. He proposed merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels and tents for mothers to leave their children while shopping.

THIS, TOO, fell by the wayside.

Among ideas that bore fruit were Harry Albert's arcade building on Fourth Street where the water district office was formerly located; the new building on Fifth where Marin Industrial Foundation, Chamber of Commerce, and Marin Visitors Bureau are located; and other commercial structures and private homes.

He is working on a big addition to the Marin Medical Center at Second and D streets, expansion of the Crocker Anglo Bank's office at Fourth and B, and a new United California Bank at Third and Cijos.

JUST NORTH of the Civic Center, he is designing a multi-million-dollar Marin Convention Center for Shaun Wiltshire and Associates. It calls for a central core with restaurant and convention facilities, with motel units radiating out like spokes in a giant wheel, with possible condominium apartments and lagoon development.

On the architecture of the new Civic Center, Severin would not comment. One architect does not know all the ramifications involved in a building done by another architect, he explains.

"The question of economics dictates the kind of materials and the end product."

BUT OF ONE thing Severin is definite: "I think there is enough talent in Marin now that we don't have to rely on bringing in people from the outside."

He lives at 8 Marina Court Drive in San Rafael with his wife, the former Jean L. Owens of San Francisco. She is a third generation San Franciscan. Her maternal grandparents were associated with H. L. E. Meyer Shipping Co., and her paternal grandparents with the Great American Tea and Coffee Co. before the 1906 earthquake.

The Severins have a married daughter, Mrs. Shirlene

BOB SEVERIN WORKS FOR A BETTER MARIN

Nelson, living in Los Angeles. The architect and his wife met while both were attending high schools in the Los Angeles area. They were married in Reno in 1942.

MRS. SEVERIN takes care of his bookkeeping in his San Rafael office. "She's my go-between," says Severin. "Whenever a customer doesn't like me, she steps in."

Their one big hobby is to take their 37-foot cruiser for a weekend spin in the bay. "Each morning when I leave home for work, it's three minutes to the boat and three minutes to the office. It's a tough decision which way I go."

Born in Grand Forks, N.D., in 1909, he grew up near Devil's Lake, the largest inland lake next to the Great Salt Lake. His father was branch manager for the Armour Co. there.

HE MOVED TO Los Angeles in 1924, graduating in 1932 from University of Southern California with architecture as his major.

Just before World War II, he studied at the Art Center in Los Angeles and took courses at California Institute of Technology.

When the shooting war broke out, Howard Hughes pulled him out of Cal Tech and shipped him to Vancouver, Wash., to start a program to build plywood flying boats. But that project was lost in the shuffle when the program of warfare changed, and Severin and his colleagues shifted their attention to production illustration in ship building.

THAT INVOLVED plotting every detail of a ship in three dimensions, down to the slightest bend in a pipe.

When a ship was disabled at sea, men would be flown to the ship to inspect the damage. With the use of the geometric illustrations, repair plans could be worked out in advance so that work could begin as soon as the ship reached port.

Severin and his group got a Navy commendation for this work. After the war, he stayed in Oregon, developing a summer resort area, then moved back to California, settling in Marin.

IN CIVIC WORK, Severin is chairman of the boats and harbors committee of the Marin Visitors Bureau, a director of the bureau, and a director on the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

Looking out over the bays and hills, Severin sees a steady influx of new residents and visitors.

His reaction to the inevitable growth is philosophical: "You can't stand there like Horatio at the Bridge with a wet towel in hand trying to beat back the tide. You might as well step back, make plans and be ready for them."

BOTH THE SKIPPER, Bob Severin, and his chief mate, wife Jean, were busy as they prepared for a weekend spin on their cruiser. Here they are seen hoisting the good-luck flag. Such weekend cruises on the bay are a regular thing with the Severins. (Independent-Journal photo)

IN THE CABIN OF their 37-foot cruiser, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Severin relax by playing a game of dominoes. The roomy cabin of their boat provides them with all the comforts of home. It was Severin's lifelong love of water that brought him from his native North Dakota eventually to the Bay Area. And his affection for boats and boating continued to grow through the years.

A Musician Comes Home To Marin

Symphony Violist Rolf Persinger Returns To County Where He Spent His Boyhood

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Rolf Persinger, new principal violist with the San Francisco Symphony, has returned to live in Marin where he spent 10 years of his early life in Mill Valley, Sausalito and San Rafael.

He and his wife, Arden, and their two children, Wendy, 10, and Brandon, 8, now live in a new home on top of one of the Tiburon hills.

There he expects to do some private teaching of violin and viola and enjoy many evenings of music with other noted musicians of Marin and the Bay Area. One of his major interests is string quartets.

Neighbors have already had the privilege of hearing familiar Brahms and Beethoven themes through the open windows on warm evenings.

NOW 40 YEARS old, Persinger has, since leaving Marin, enjoyed the best of training and much rich experience with some of the country's outstanding musical organizations.

For the past nine seasons he has played with the Chicago Symphony as associate solo violist. He was invited to join that symphony by Fritz Reiner as a result of the critical acclaim that followed his debut in 1952 as a solo artist in New York's Town Hall.

HE APPEARED many times as viola soloist with the Chicago Symphony and founded the Festival String Quartet which presented 12 concerts a year and featured such world-famous soloists as Leon Fleischer, Leonard Rose, Eugene Istomin and Benny Goodman.

During this time he also taught at Northwestern University.

For the past two summers Persinger has played with Pablo Casals in the Casals Festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Before joining the Chicago Symphony, Persinger played four seasons as solo violist with the Minneapolis Symphony under Antal Dorati and taught at the University of Minnesota.

HIS FIRST symphonic affiliation was with the NBC Symphony under Arturo Toscanini for two years in New York City, where he was also violist with the Guilet String Quartet which toured the United States, Mexico and Canada. And he founded the Persinger String Trio, which traveled throughout the U. S.

Born into a very musical family, Rolf started the study of piano at the age of 4 with his mother, Angela Giannelli, a professional pianist. At the age of 10 he began the study of the violin with his father, Louis Persinger, concert master of the San Francisco Symphony for some 12 or 13 years and founder of his own Persinger String Quartet. It was during this period that the family lived in Marin County.

ROLF'S FATHER is one of the top violin teachers in the country. Among his pupils have been Yehudi Menuhin, Isaac Stern and Rugierrio Ricci.

He still teaches at the Julliard School of Music in New York City.

Rolf continued his study of the violin at the Julliard School of Music until he was 21. While he was a student there, he was the only young New York violinist selected to play with the American Youth Orchestra under Leopold Stowkowski.

HE LEFT Julliard when he was inducted into the U. S. Army, where he served four years as a warrant officer and band leader, working with the USO in music therapy, and conducting symphonies.

During his service he broke his hand in an accident. After six months of inactivity, he switched from the violin to the viola, not because of the accident, but because he believed the scarcity of viola soloists offered more opportunity with that instrument.

IN ADDITION to teaching at Northwestern University and the University of Minnesota, Persinger has taught at Colorado College in Colorado Springs and at the Academy

DAUGHTER WENDY, 10, gets some help on a particularly difficult violin passage from her teacher and famous musician father, Rolf Persinger of the San Francisco Symphony. of the West in Santa Barbara. Among his most highly prized experiences was a tour he and his wife took in 1951 to the music festivals of Europe as leaders of a group of 25 college graduates.

WHEN PERSINGER is heard next March as viola soloist with the San Francisco Symphony, he will be playing an instrument of unusual interest to musicians.

"Many people admire and love fantastic old instruments," he says. "Up to four years ago, my viola was a Maginni made in 1650. Then I met a violin-maker in Chicago and commissioned him to make an instrument to my own specifications.

"HE MADE IT out of wood more than 200 years old. Whether through his craftsmanship or luck or whatever, it turned out to be what musicians have acclaimed as one of the finest modern violas in existence. The tone puts you in mind of the instrument of William Primrose, who is largely responsible for making the viola what it is today.

"I hope to make people aware of what the viola can be as a solo instrument."

Persinger continues: "We came to San Francisco because I wanted to work with Joseph Krips, and because I believe that there are more opportunities for solo work and chamber music here.

"SINCE COMING here and having the opportunity to play chamber music evenings with the string players outside the symphony, I have come to the conclusion that the level of string playing here is exceptionally high. It is comparable to the finest to be found anywhere.

"We selected Marin County for our home because we think, with its peace and quiet and its good schools, it will be a good place for our children."

The musician's hobbies are golf and sport cars. But his music and his family are his life.

Which stereo multiplex tuner should you purchase? This is a very important question. FM reception, like television reception, is line of sight for distance; that is, if you live high on a hill and have no mountains between your location and the transmitting station, you will have very clear reception from stations as far as 90 miles away. If you live behind hills, your reception may be limited to only a few miles.

When purchasing an FM tuner, your location and thus your reception area is the important factor to consider. If you are high or otherwise in a location with a clear view in the transmitting direction, you undoubtedly will have strong FM signals in your area. You do not have to choose an FM tuner that is extremely sensitive. If you are in an area that has obstructions between your home and the transmitting stations, chances are that your FM and TV signals are not as strong as they should be. For these areas you should select an FM tuner that has a high sensitivity.

What are sensitivity ratings or specifications? Among other things, a good tuner will specify its sensitivity. Component type FM tuners range in sensitivity from 6 microvolts for 30 db of quieting using IHF standards (Institute of High Fidelity standards) to as low as 1.6 microvolts for 30 db of quieting using IHF standards. The least sensitive is the set requiring 6 microvolts, and the most sensitive is the one requiring 1.6 microvolts. What does all of this mean? It means that it takes 6 microvolts or more of signal from your antenna to allow the FM tuner to provide you with a clear undistorted program without background noise for the least sensitive of the sets, and as little as 1.6 microvolts of signal at the antenna to provide you with a clear undistorted program without background noise for the most sensitive and most costly of FM tuners. Of course, many sets have sensitivities somewhere between 6 and 1.6 microvolts.

If you are in a strong signal area, having an extremely sensitive set will not necessarily make any appreciable difference over a less sensitive set having equal quality. All signal over a certain amount will automatically be rejected by the tuner. However, if you are in a poor signal area, and for example you have 2 microvolts of signal but your FM set requires 6 microvolts to give good clean reception, you will have a noisy and distorted program. By installing say a set with 1.8 microvolts sensitivity, you would have a good program.

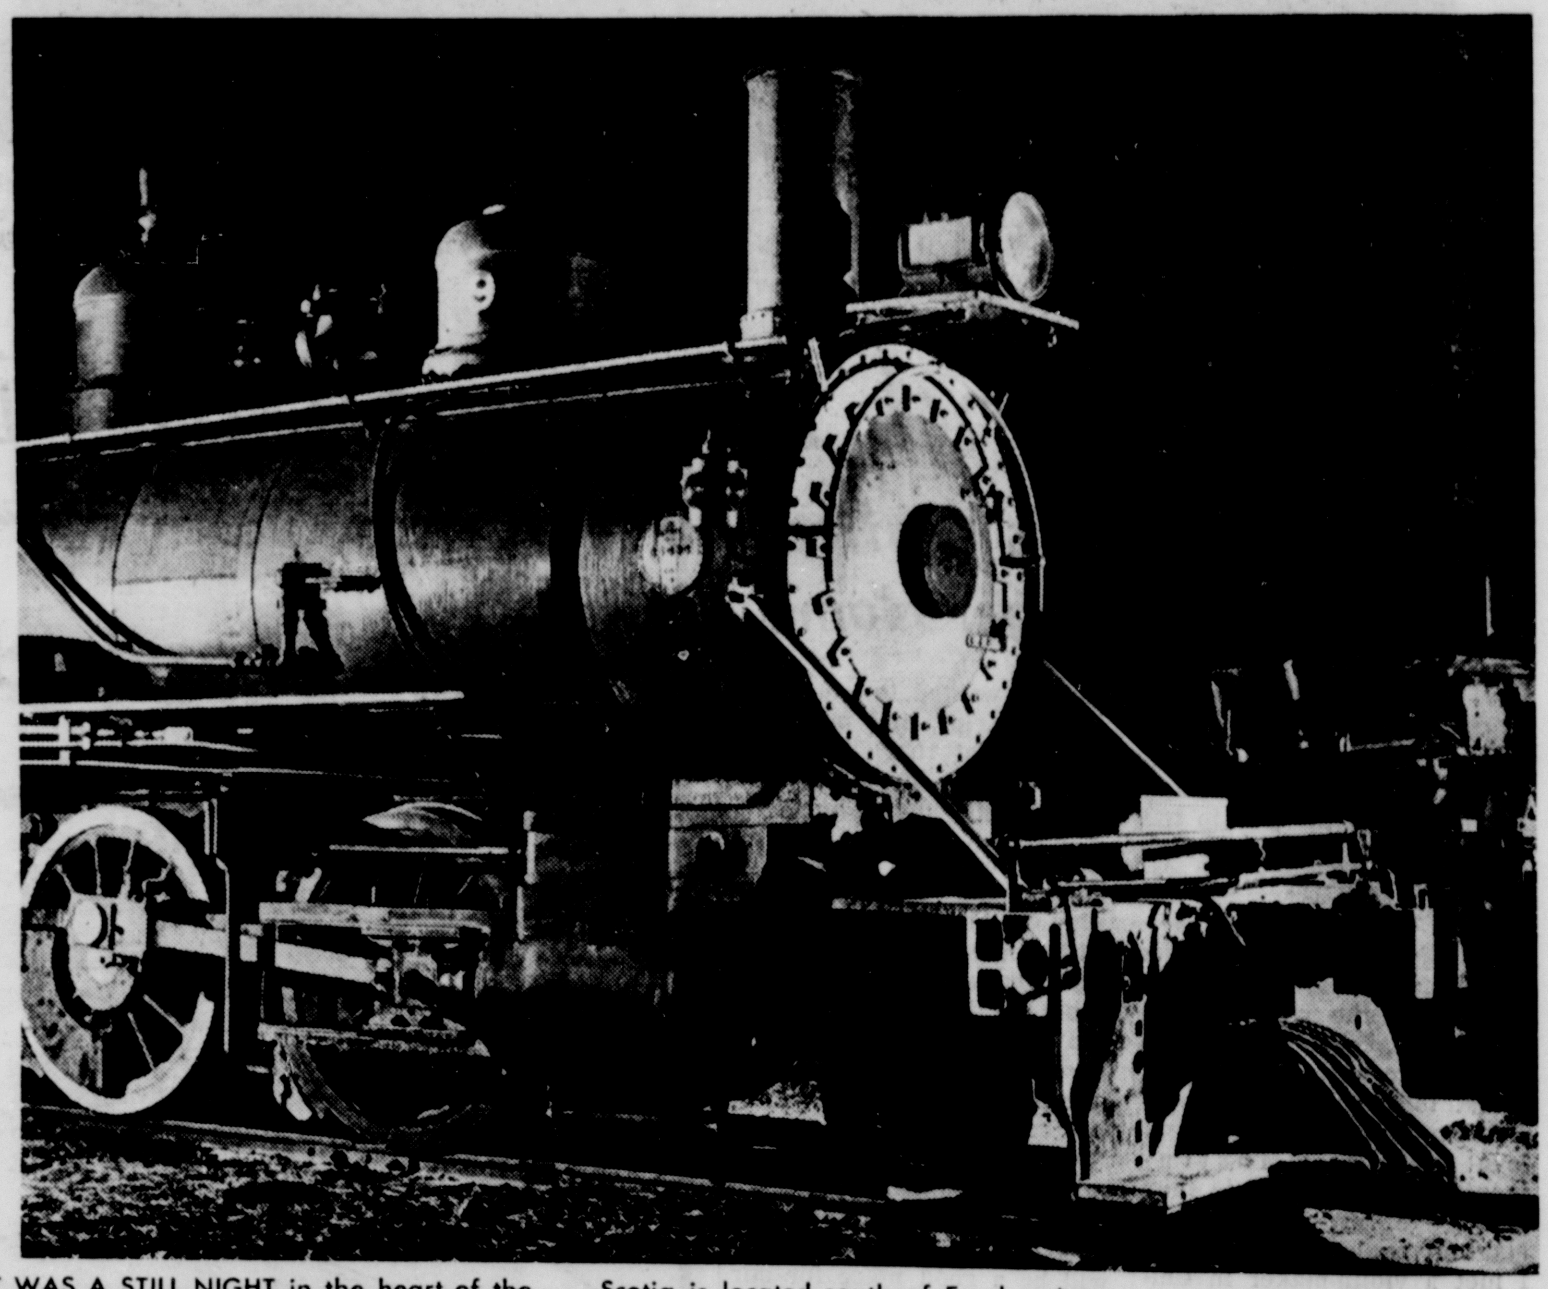
TWO FORMER wooden electric commute cars from the Marin County service of Northwestern Pacific were photographed on a side track at Laughlin near Willits in the twilight years of their lives by Richard Steinheimer, former Independent-Journal staff photographer. Stripped of seats and motors, they now perform the function of section cars and thus are still around and useful despite the almost complete scrapping of their younger replacements built of steel which finished out their careers on the Pacific Electric Railway in Southern California. Photo is from Steinheimer's newly-published book, "Backwoods Railroads of the West."



IT WAS A STILL NIGHT in the heart of the Redwood Empire at Scotia, when Steinheimer obtained this striking photo of a Prarie-type logging engine of the Pacific Lumber Co. as it rested under the stars. Scotia is located south of Eureka. A number of shots taken of the historic old mining and lumbering lines of the West are included among the 203 photos making up the "Backwoods Railroads of the West" portfolio by Steinheimer.

AT RIGHT, Richard Steinheimer's camera caught on a February day, a switcher at work in the yards of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad as it shoved the dinky narrow gauge cars past the Durango, Colo., stockyards. The scene is from the sheet-fed gravure book, "Backwoods Railroads of the West," containing 177 pages of photos by railroad buff Steinheimer. Steinheimer, a former Independent-Journal staff photographer now with Fairchild Semiconductor of Palo Alto as a marketing photographer, says that most of his preliminary ideas for the organization and layout of his book came from discussions with Donald Howe and David Strassman.

Santa Rosa Dream Home By Marinites

With all the construction activity under way in Marin, you might think that the county's talented designers, landscapers and builders would have their hands full on the homefront.

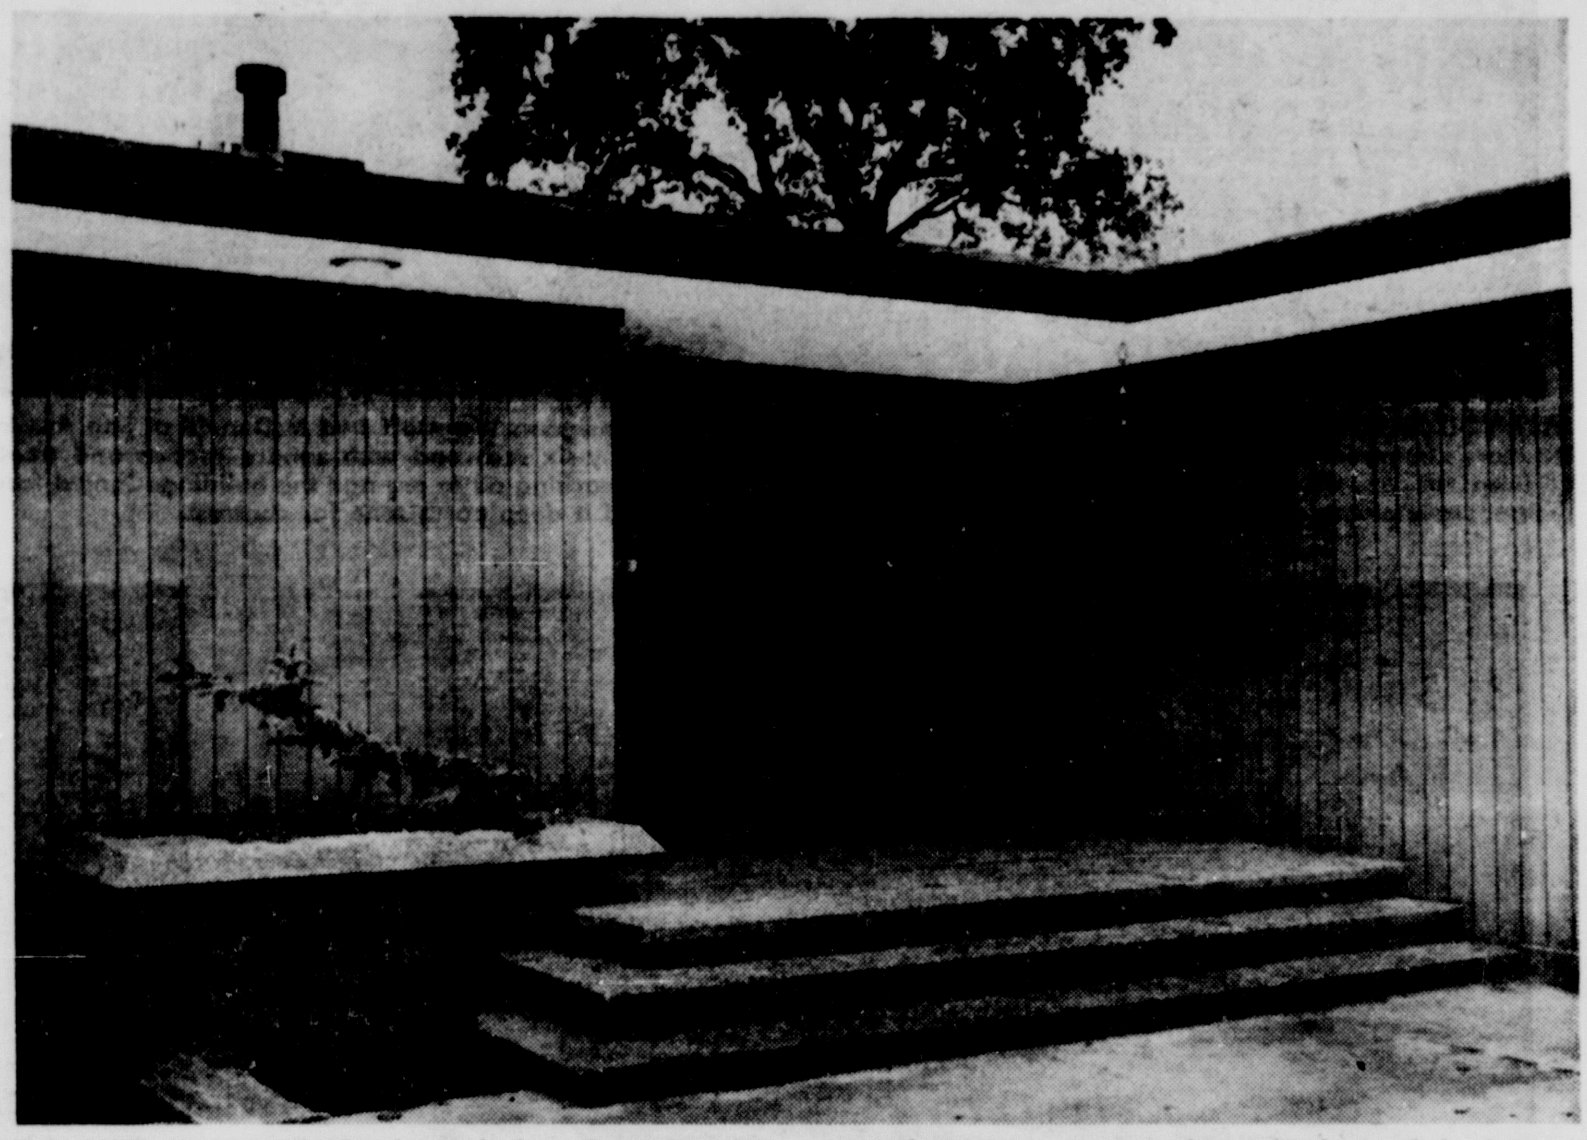
But they do from time to time find the time for projects in neighboring counties.

For example: The home constructed for Dr. and Mrs. Chester Marsh on a view lot on Oak Meadow Drive adjoining the Santa Rosa golf course.

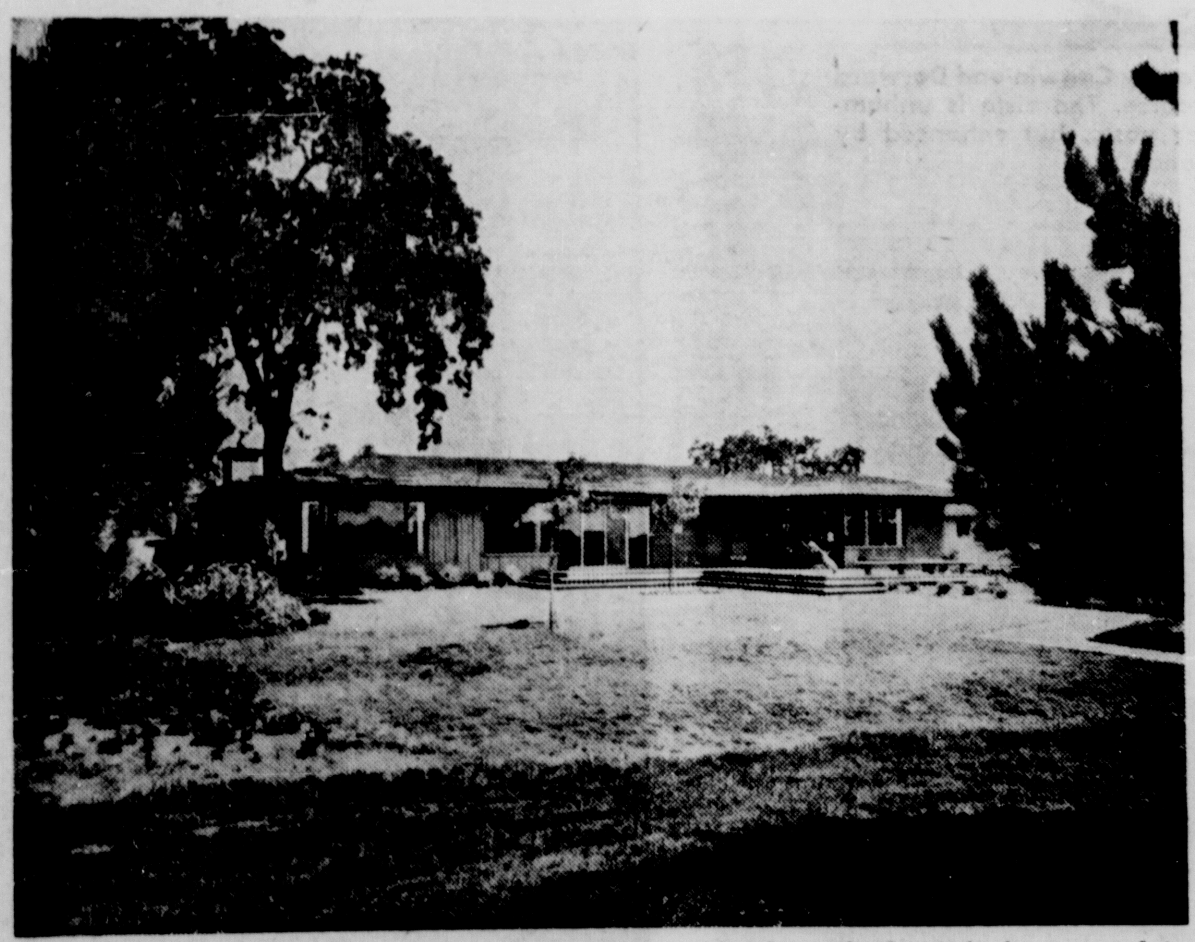
Involved from Marin were Wagstaff and McDonald as the designers, Henry Cole as the landscape designer and Cagwin and Dorward as the landscape contractors.

General contractor Edwin C. Doty of Sebastopol completed the team which built for the Marshes their dream house.

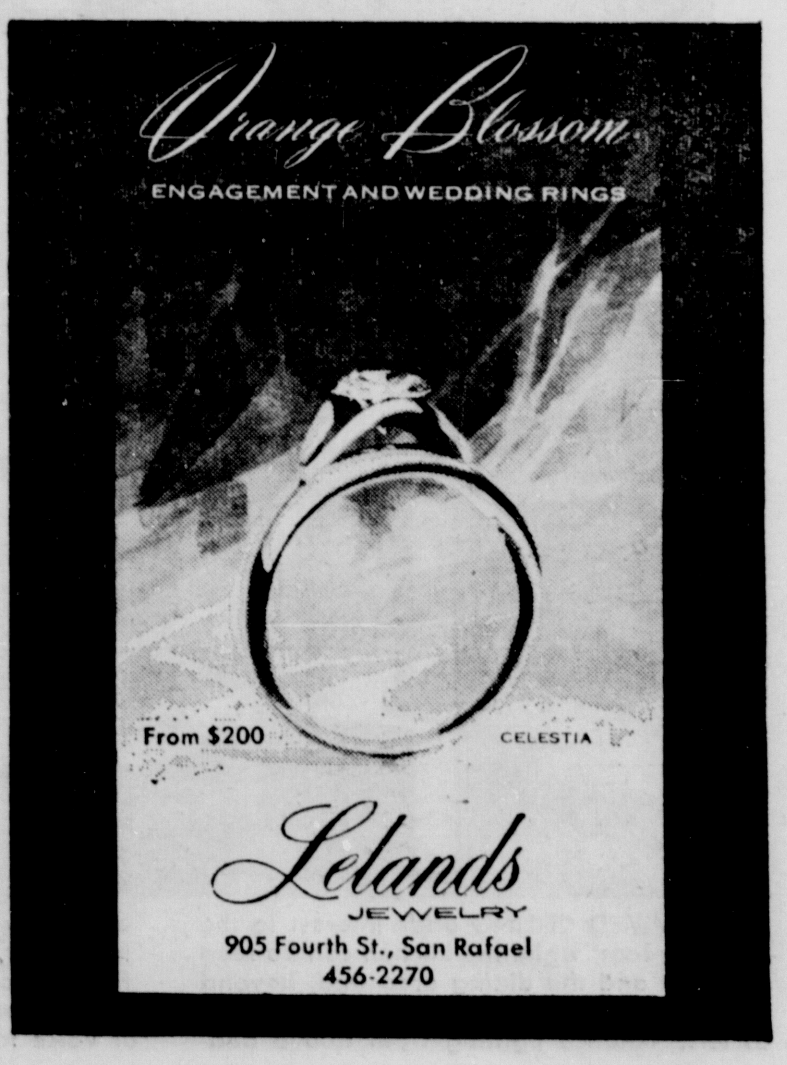
The strikingly handsome residence that resulted can be admired without a trip to Santa Rosa simply by looking at the pictures appearing on this and the following pages.



THE CHESTER MARSH HOME is located along Santa Rosa's Oak Meadow Drive, but it bears the imprint of Marin. The designers, Wagstaff and McDonald, the landscaper, Henry Cole, and the landscape contractor, Cagwin and Dorward, are all Marin firms. Edwin C. Doty of Sebastopol was the general contractor. In top photo, the front of the home is seen with the broad circular drive allowing one-way in-and-out traffic flow. In lower photo, you see the front entrance with gentle steps of exposed concrete aggregate, concrete planter box with bonsai pine and amber bottle glass on either side of entry doors.



THE REAR OF THE Marsh residence offers prime views from every room. There's a broad wood deck with steps that lead down into the planted area, and that in turn blends perfectly with the green fairway of the adjoining golf course. See pages M-12 and M-13 for additional pictures. (Photos by Ken Molino)

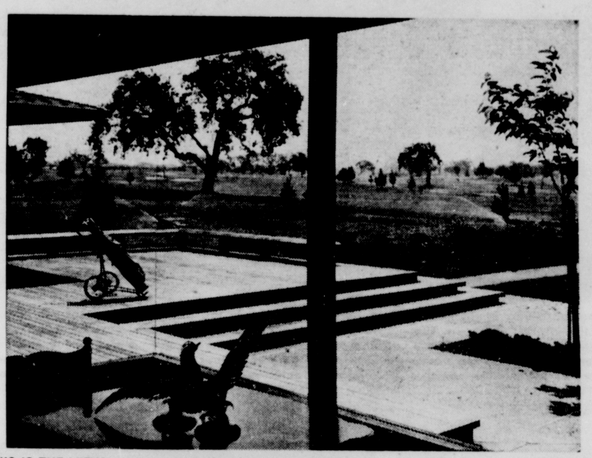


A Dream House Designed In Marin

HERE YOU HAVE a closer view of the rear of the Dr. Chester Marsh home in Santa Rosa showing the copper-sheathed fireplace cap, the low silhouette of the shingle roof and the generous plastered overhangs. Exterior materials specified by designers Wagstaff and McDonald of San Anselmo are one-by-six redwood with square groove and treated with a bleaching oil to pre-age the building. Canted fascia is painted a deep earth tone for contrast.

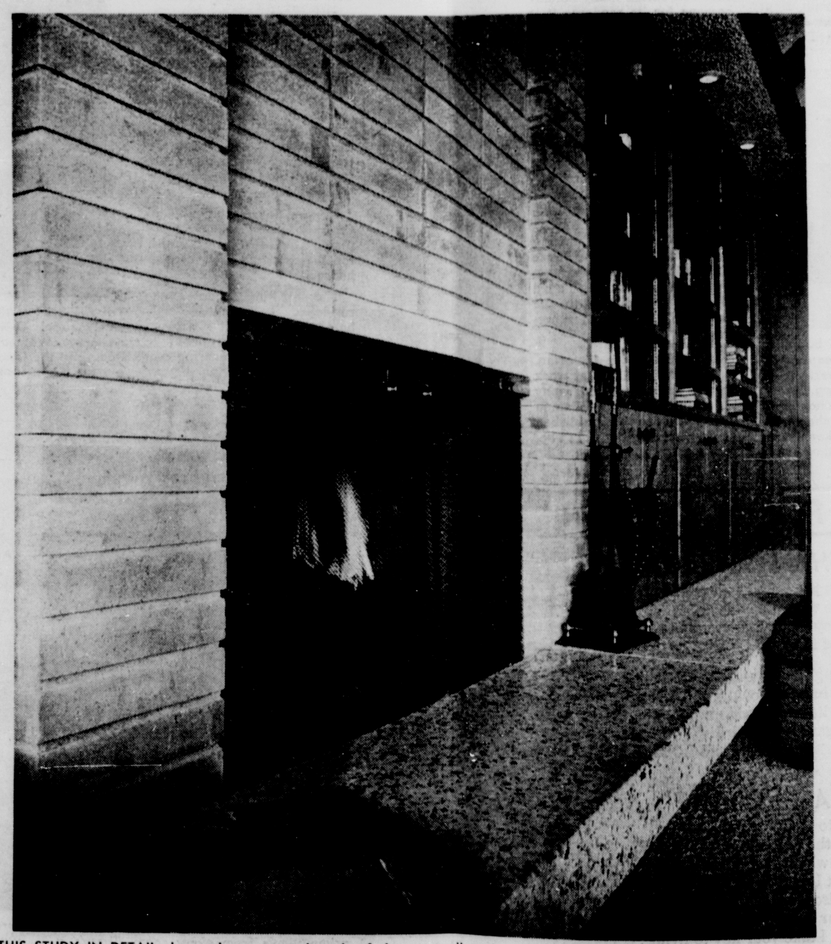
FROM THE LIVING ROOM, you look back through the dining area and into the family room beyond in the Marsh residence. On the left can be seen a terrazzo main entry. A folding door is recessed in the wall and closes the dining room off from the entry when desired. Likewise, accordion doors can separate the dining and family rooms. Low eight-foot ceiling of the foyer carries into the living room in form of a valance which in turn goes completely around the room.

THESE RECESSED library shelves with cabinets located beneath them are both an attractive and a utilitarian feature of the Marsh home as designed by Wagstaff and McDonald. The shelves are illuminated by pin lights from above.



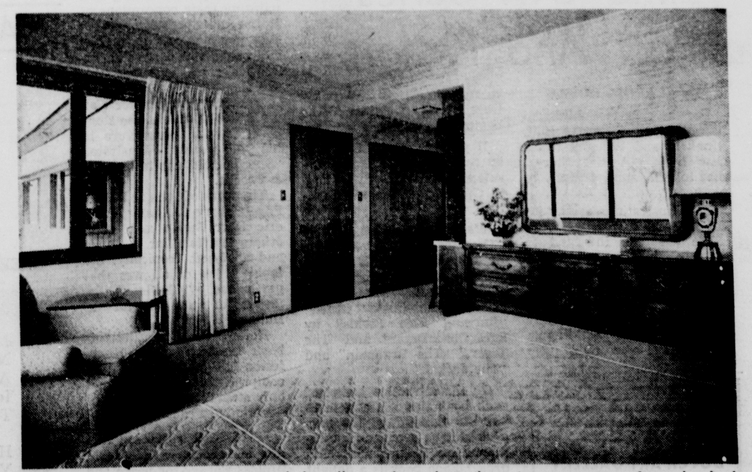
THIS IS THE VIEW as one sits in the dining room of the Marsh home and looks out across the landscaping planned by Henry Cole and installed by Cagwin and Dorward onto the golf course. The vista is unhampered by corner posts, but enhanced by mitred glass panels.

THE BEAMED CEILING adds interest to the family room, while the kitchen can be seen at right and the dining area and, beyond it, the living room are in the background at left. Valance lighting from above and a "pleasure center" consisting of bar with ice-maker, sink and indirect lighting are family room features. An AM-FM communications and radio system pipes music or voice to all parts of the house.



THIS STUDY IN DETAIL shows the terrazzo hearth of the Marsh living room with brass divider strips running to the wall under the bookcases. The Norman brick fireplace has an indented panel for quiet accenting. There are pin lights above the fireplace as well as above the bookcases.

YOU ARE IN THE living room of the Marsh home, looking out into the golf course. Wall material is three-eighth-inch thick individual redwood planking with recessed lines every three feet for pattern accent.



THE MASTER BEDROOM features grass cloth walls, wall-to-wall carpeting, and wardrobe doors that have been kept in areas away from the bedroom's furniture placement. (Photos by Ken Molino)

THE STREET OF GRASS by Pierre Audemars, Harper & Row, 181 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The Pierre Audemars stories featuring detective M. Pinaud of the Surete are always excellent, but in "The Street of Grass" the author has outdone himself.

It is not just one of the best mysteries of the year. It is an outstanding piece of writing by the standards of any category of fiction.

Pinaud, on vacation in a small French town, becomes involved in the investigation of a policeman's slaying. The jailed suspect is a Moslem. There is little real evidence against him. But, because of the Algerian strife at the time, there is much prejudice and hatred against him.

Driven by his strong sense of justice, Pinaud risks career and life by wading into the tangled case. Not plastic bombs nor official disfavor nor the murder of a friend nor many other perils can dissuade him in his search for the truth.

Audemars tells his exciting and extremely realistic story with great compassion and sensitivity. His M. Pinaud emerges a most heroic figure, yet entirely human, and certainly one of detective fiction's most impressive characters.

Audemars also bares all the ugliness and hatefulness of bigotry—a social malaise not confined to France.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Little Owl Series—Fact And Fiction

By CLAUDIA ROYAL

For the youngest child who likes to "picture read," Holt, Rinehart and Winston has a new book, "A Cat Story," that tells its story entirely in pictures.

The illustrations are by Elliot Gilbert.

We are also indebted to Holt, Rinehart for a long list of "Little Owl" storybooks.

These are charming books, prose and poetry, fact and fiction. They are beautifully illustrated by well-known artists. Page and double-page spreads in bright colors attract the small child and the beginning reader.

If your child acquires skill in reading, he will also develop discernment in art and in choice of children's literature.

We list some of the titles: "The Sun Is a Star" by Sune Engelbrektson; "The Old Woman and Her Pig," "The House That Jack Built," "Three Billy-Goats Gruff," "Burning Rice Fields" by Sara Cone Bryant, and "The Tiger," "The Brahman" and "The Jackal."

On the attractive jacket of each book there is a note to parents explaining "the purpose of the story and techniques for its use with children." Each book is a delight to the eyes and a joy to read.

A Novelist Takes You On Tour Of Tiny Isles, Rural Ireland

By DON KEOWN

Ann Bridge, wife of a British diplomat, has written another of her novels dealing with international intrigue and suspense in her "The Dangerous Islands."

Her plot is overshadowed, as it often is, by the richness of her descriptions.

Settings in the Hebrides and Scilly Islands and in County Mayo, Ireland, are presented in such loving and vivid detail that at times Mrs. Bridge seems to be laying it on just a bit "too thick." But the reader soon succumbs to the charm of the locales and sits back, just enjoying the wealth of magnificent landscapes, quaint local customs and colorful backgrounds which flavor the novel.

Characterizations are also strongly done, and include some familiar Bridge characters from earlier novels, one of whom is the beautiful and delightfully unpredictable Julia Probyn.

The plot seems a little naive—something to do with a network of secret satellite tracking stations being planted around Britain by those dastardly Russians. Julia and a new boy friend are out to foil this scheme. But you become far too engrossed in the beautifully done backgrounds to bicker about a rather shallow story line. Few travel books have done as well. And the off-the-beaten-track places to which Mrs. Bridge and her characters take you are perfect subjects for such an armchair tour.

TODAY, when we think of Sherlock Holmes, it is actor Basil Rathbone who comes to mind. Seldom has Hollywood done such a superb job of casting.

A previous generation cast Holmes in the pattern of still another famous impersonator, William Gillette.

But thespians aren't the only group who have contributed toward our visualization of A. Conan Doyle's great sleuth. Illustrators, too, have played a part, drawing and painting their conceptions of Holmes hundreds of times for the newspapers, magazines and books which have chronicled the master detective's exploits.

Baker Street Irregular Walter Klinefelter tells the story of Holmesian portraiture in his generously - illustrated "Sherlock Holmes in Portrait & Profile."

The work of such as Sidney Paget, Harry C. Adams, Frederic Dorr Steele and many others less familiar is shown and analyzed. Ironically, the feeblest job of all was that performed by Charles Doyle, father of the creator of Holmes.

Holmes fans will find this book fascinating, for Klinefelter has done the kind of comprehensive job that could only stem from wholehearted devotion to a cause.

IT IS NOT surprising that the late Eleanor Roosevelt, tireless worker for peace and goodwill among mankind, had a special affection for the Christmas season.

Prior to her death she collected her favorite writings about the great Christian holiday, and these have now been published as "Eleanor Roosevelt's Christmas Book" by Dodd, Mead and Co. and the Roosevelt Estate.

Included are stories, essays, poems and songs from around the world that express with a special beauty the true meaning and great traditions of Christmas.

Her own brief accounts of Christmas at Hyde Park and in the White House and a charming story she wrote for children lead off the volume.

Among the other contents are Robert P. Tristam Coffin's totally delightful "Christmas in Maine," O. Henry's timeless "The Gift of the Magi," Washington Irving's "The Christmas Dinner," Hans Christian Andersen's "The Fir Tree," Robert Louis Stevenson's "A Christmas Sermon," F. Van Wyck Mason's story of Christmas Eve, 1777, at Valley Forge, and other prose pieces by Dylan Thomas, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Joseph Henry Jackson, Stephen Leacock, Fannie Hurst, Lord Halifax and many others. And, of course, Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" and the New York Sun's "Yes, Virginia, There Is A Santa Claus."

Robert Frost, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, John Masefield, William Shakespeare, Alfred Lord Tennyson, Lewis Carroll and Thomas Hardy are only a few of the poets represented. And there is a special section of carols from the repertoire of the United Nations Singers so dear to Mrs. Roosevelt.

In this splendid book, Eleanor Roosevelt has left behind her a lasting Christmas gift that will enrich many holiday seasons for its readers. It is not for the cynics. But, then, neither is Christmas.

THE DANGEROUS ISLANDS by Ann Bridge, McGraw-Hill, 275 pages, $5.50.

SHERLOCK HOLMES IN PORTRAIT & PROFILE by Walter Klinefelter, Syracuse Universtiy Press, 104 8-by-11-inch pages, $5.50.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT'S CHRISTMAS BOOK, Dodd, Mead and Co., 338 pages, $6.

DECORATING with books is a colorful and inexpensive way to add interest to a table or desk setting. Hummel figurine bookends will add their delicate charm to the setting and keep the volumes neatly in place, too.

"THE BRAZILIAN Cookbook" by Irene Becker Moliterno (Crown Publishers, $4.95) offers the traditional favorites from all of Brazil's several distinct regions. As might be expected, bananas, shrimp, rice, beans, corn, coffee, coconut, papyas and other Brazilian staples are featured. The author is one of Brazil's foremost cooking authorities, and she has had the assistance of Charles Frank and Associates in translating and adapting the dishes to the American kitchen and supermarket.

A YOUNG Irish historian, Thomas P. O'Neill, is at work on the authorized biography of Ireland's President Eamon De Valera, to be published in this country by Little, Brown and Co.

There wasn't any dock,

A THOUGHT

Is it cruel to let you stand—
Not grasp the problem in your hand?
Ah no, for what if I should find
In taking it I'd made you blind
To your discovery, your conquering self,
your being free.
How could I take your key to living?
Yet I have done it and called it giving.

Holiday Ideas

THE JOYFUL CHRISTMAS BOOK by Kathryn Holley Seibel, D. Von Nostrand Co., 186 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

The Christmas season seems to bring out the do-it-yourself urge in many of us, but sometimes ideas are hard to come by.

Kathryn Holley Seibel, well-known as a flower arranger, offers her help in "The Joyful Christmas Craft Book," crammed with just such ideas —Christmas items that can be made with materials ranging from paper and evergreens to macaroni and seashells.

Wood shavings, marbles, straw, wood, clay, popcorn, plastic bags, bottles, foil, tin cans and plastic are some of her other materials.

The end products include Christmas cards, home and tree decorations, figurines, baskets, trees, gift items, etc.

Some of the handmade Yule items as shown in the illustrations are unfamiliar to us, but Mrs. Seibel explains their national origins. Everyone should find some suitable projects to provide that special satisfaction that comes from making something with your hands. And no small matter this time of the year is the financial saving that will result.

About The Birds

THE GREAT AUK by Allan W. Eckert, Little, Brown and Co., 202 pages, $4.75. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

The main characters in this novel are great auks, once the only flightless species of North Atlantic birds.

This is the story of their extinction, in which Man appears only briefly as just another item on the long list of the great auks' natural enemies. Unfortunately this brief appearance is magnified by guilt, because Man's role in its extinction was decisive.

Allan W. Eckert bases his story on these facts: "On June 3, 1844, on the island of Eldey, also known as Fire Island, off the southwestern coast of Iceland, the species of a large penguin-like bird known as the great auk became extinct from the face of the earth. This occurred when the last two living specimens were killed by Jon Brandsson and Sigourour Isleffson and the egg of these two birds was smashed by Ketil Ketilsson."

The history of the extinction of a species is pertinent to all men. The appeal of this well-written book should not be limited to the naturalist. It is more haunting than any of the books about "the bomb."

Tracing Teddy

A SENTIMENTAL SAFARI by Kermit Roosevelt, Alfred A. Knopf, $6.95, 286 pages. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

When Kermit Roosevelt and his two sons, Kermit Jr. and Jonathan, returned from their African safari in 1960, Life Magazine reported the trip with six pages of pictures and a very small amount of text.

For readers who were only teased by this and wanted more, Roosevelt has complied most generously, telling how his party traced the steps his famous grandfather, Theodore, had taken 50 years earlier.

The reader gets some insight on the personality of Theodore Roosevelt and at the same time is treated to the adventure of the hunt. There are many illustrations of both the first and second safaris.

Backstage Biog

MISTER ABBOTT by George Abbott, Random House, 279 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

If theater fans are looking for backstage gossip or a flattering portrait of a man who has earned the title of "dean of Broadway directors," they won't find either in George Abbott's autobiography.

Instead they will find the story of a man's life written with stark honesty, the unflattering aspects getting equal play with the flattering.

During his 50 years on Broadway as a director, actor, writer and producer, Abbott had more than his share of successes. But he does not gloss over the failures.

He admits there are "ups and downs" in the theater, and so there are in Abbott's story.

Understandably, some of his finer passages concern the theater, and his advice in matters of the theater is invaluable. When his advice ranges into other fields and he offers bits of his philosophy, he tends to pontificate; a fault he found in his father, incidentally.

Abbott's recounting of his early days in upstate New York, Cheyenne, Wyo., and a military academy in Nebraska, are a welcome switch from the usual "show biz" rags-to-riches story opening on New York's lower East Side.

His unrelenting frankness is most evident in his episodes of family life, including two marriages that were something less than ideal. After all, how many will volunteer the information they didn't go to their mother's funeral?

All in all, not quite up to Moss Hart's "Act One," but at least three miles ahead of the standard "as-told-to" yarn.

Pesky Redskins

THE KICKAPOOS: LORDS OF THE MIDDLE BORDER, by A. M. Gibson, University of Oklahoma Press, 361 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

They lacked the flash and color of the Sioux or Cheyennes, but the Kickapoos were the most independent, orneriest, peskiest tribe of redskins to hold up the march of the white man's civilization across the central plains and the southwest.

Some of them for a time were followers of Tecumseh and the Prophet, and later they produced a prophet of their own in Kennekuk, perhaps their most famous chief.

If they lacked great leaders of the stature of Geronimo, Sitting Bull or Chief Joseph, they displayed an endurance in resisting the whites that even Joseph could not match. And because of their adamant refusal to follow "the white man's road," neither force of arms nor the ordinary brand of double-dealing accorded the Indian was sufficient to oust them from their hunting grounds; it required fraud and chicanery of an especially refined variety.

A. M. Gibson of the University of Oklahoma Library has added a worthy volume to that university's "Civilization of the American Indian" series with "The Kickapoos: Lords of the Middle Border." His tale has a hero, too—and, unusual indeed for an Indian tribal history, the hero is a white man: Frank Thackery, who became Kickapoo Indian agent in 1905 and succeeded in restoring the remnants of the tribe to at least the last of the lands promised them by the Great White Father in Washington.

Gibson is no George Bird Grinnell; but neither were the Kickapoos the Fighting Cheyennes. And if his history of the Kickapoos is more pedantic than some other tribal histories in the series, it is perhaps also more enlightening.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

THE JAZZ CRUSADERS/ TOUGH TALK—Pacific Jazz Stereo PJ-68:

While not mentioned on the album, the most unusual thing about this latest Jazz Crusaders release is the use of the harpsichord on both the title tune and a second bossa nova opus in the lp. Both catchy tunes are characterized by a simple ostinato or repeated figure on the harpsichord which becomes almost hypnotic. Either one could do very well on the juke-box circuit, this corner feels. Joe Sample is the keyboard man, who blows piano on the other seven tunes. Wilton Felder's tenor sax and Wayne Henderson's trombone again contribute to the marvelously well-integrated musical ensemble whose roots can be seen to lie in the down-home blues idiom.

KENNY BURRELL / ALL DAY LONG — Prestige (remastered-for-Stereo) PR 7277:

The title track expands over the entire first side of this re-release. It is too long. The morning is allright, but by afternoon and evening the series of solos by guitarist Burrell and associates Frank Foster on trombone, Don Byrd on trumpet and Tommy Flanagan on piano, begins to get tiresome. As is the case with nearly all of these interminable jazz tracks that go on forever, the blues are the musical basis. The group is one of the best and all members are exceptional jazzmen, but this effort, first heard in 1957, just doesn't catch fire anymore.

GEORGIE AULD QUINTET PLAYS THE WINNERS —Philips Stereo PHS 600-096:

Auld is a tenor saxophonist with a pleasing but eclectic style who has been around for quite a few years. The talented trombonist Frank Rosolino joins him on this lp based on a Las Vegas-sort of theme. Lou Levy is at the piano, and bassist Leroy Vinnegar gives fine support, as he does on most of the lp's he constantly appears on. The group's tongue-in-cheek treatment of Taps Miller is our favorite of the set, which is very frankly nothing special.

THE GARDENING PAGE

Almost Everything Will Grow In The Right Kind Of Container

If you think of container gardening as a rather limited horticultural diversion, consider the nurserymen.

Everything he has is grown in containers—and large or small everything is thriving and healthy.

The California Assn. of Nurserymen uses this not as a recommended example for home gardeners to follow, but only as in indication of how versatile container gardening can be. There is nothing that won't grow in a container for a limited time, at least. And a majority of shrubs and trees can be confined to such unnatural circumstances for years on end.

The point we make is that anyone who turns his imagination loose on this particular form of gardening can not only create corners of interest but of lasting beauty as well.

RIGHT NOW, for instance, you can plant spring-blooming bulbs in containers. Daffodils, tulips and hyacinths, to say nothing of the minor bulbs such as grape hyacinths and Dutch irises, all thrive in containers and the pots full of beauty they create for spring is welcome, indeed. Use gallon nursery cans, clay pots or redwood planters for your bulbs and plant plenty of them.

You can't overdo things in this respect.

Layer some gravel in the bottom of the container, then a bit of soil mixed with bonemeal and a thin layer of plain soil over this mix.

NEXT COME the bulbs, as many of them as you can cram in; then soil to cover them. Soak thoroughly and store the containers in a cool, preferably dark place, where root development can take place before top growth starts. Water them as needed to keep soil moist until the tops push up, then move them into the sunlight.

When you plant bulbs in large containers, especially in redwood planters, it adds greatly to their beauty if you overplant with blooming annuals such as alyssum, linaria, or violas. Ask a nurseryman about other possibilities.

A FESTIVE TOUCH FOR THE TABLE

Combinations of variegated foliage plants in a large clay pot, with matching saucer, make colorful centerpieces for the family Thanksgiving Day dinner.

Flowering maple and Boston "yellow daisy" chrysanthemums blend well in the same container. The Maranta, or prayer plant, and ferns, which like the same soil, make another attractive clay-potted combination.

TREES WILL create many unusual effects when grown in containers. Conifers such as the towering Japanese Black Pine will remain dwarf and happy over the years in a relatively small container. Choose something the size of a soy tub and try a conifer in it.

Prune annually to maintain the shape you like and to discourage excessive top growth.

Dwarf fruit trees, also are ideal for containers. Not only are they naturally compact and happy with confined roots, but such treatment usually makes them bear more heavily and earlier. Dwarf citrus trees in containers are real attention getters, for more than ever they become a center of attention.

CAMELLIAS ARE perfectly happy in containers for years and years. The classic examples, in this case, are certain camellias which have been grown in London, England, for nearly a century. They still thrive in the two-foot square containers which they have always grown in.

Camellias are a timely choice, too, for they are just now showing color in nurseries. Give them a soil mix mostly of leaf mold and they couldn't be happier.

Succulents are ideally grown in containers and many different forms can be combined in a single planter. Your nurseryman is the best guide to buying succulents. The list is so long they are easier to choose by sight than by name.

THE POSSIBILITIES for enjoyment from container gardening are boundless. One always thinks of the roof-top gardens in some cities, where gardeners have been forced to experiment with new plant materials to create their desired garden effects. All of us could learn something from the results.

Trees large enough for birds to nest in, hedgerows, shrubs of all sizes and shapes, blooming perennials and annuals— all of them thrive in containers in these rooftop gardens. Such gardeners may be limited for space and lacking in soil, but they have created lasting beauty through the use of containers and imagination. The rest of us should follow their example and plant accordingly.

Not Too Heavy On The Water Or Fertilizer

Guard against both overwatering and over-fertilizing foliage plants in your home.

One method of overcoming the problem of too-heavy a hand with the water is to leave the plant in its original clay pot, which drains off both excess water and harmful salt accumulations through porous pot walls.

For maintenance, some plants need only be fertilized twice a year or so. Foliage plants grown in watertight containers, such as plastic pots, may actually be damaged by accumulation of salts that develop from too frequent fertilizing.

SPEAKING OF Thanksgiving pumpkins, here's a whopper that is not yet on the market, but will be in 1964. It's the Big Max, developed by the W. Atlee Burpee Co. Big Max overages 100 pounds in weight and up to six feet in circumference, with bright yellow-orange flesh three to four inches thick. In addition to providing a lot of food, it is perfect for autumn decorations and for such festive occasions as Halloween and Thanksgiving.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Make sure newly planted trees are solidly staked against possible wind damage this winter.
- Mulch around shrubs with steer manure. If you fertilize this time of year, use a slow-acting plant food such as bone meal.
- All manner of shrubs can be planted in November. Camellias and azaleas are good bets because they will bloom in winter and spring to give you quick rewards.
- Plant perennials for spring bloom. Delphinium, Day Lily, Sweet William, Canterbury Bells, Coral Bells and many others may go in now.
- Major pruning should wait until winter sets in, but weak or dead growth can be removed from shrubs and trees this month.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Build A Gazebo In Your Garden For Added Touch Of Charm

A jaunty, whimsical gazebo can add a special touch of charm to your garden.

The one pictured to the right on this page was designed by Graham W. S. Miller, AID, and his working drawings are shown above for do-it-yourselfers who might want to tackle the project.

Made of certified kiln-dried redwood, this shelter may be stained or painted to match or contrast with existing garden structures—or left with no finish at all for a natural weathered effect.

Since redwood is rot-resistant, it can be placed directly on the ground or on a concrete or brick patio. No foundation is necessary and the floor can be grass, gravel, brick or whatever you choose. If you build it yourself, use aluminum or hot-dipped galvanized nails to avoid staining. The redwood is available at any building supply or lumber dealer.

And in adding a gazebo to your garden, you will be right in style. At their peak of popularity way back in the Victorian Era, gazebos are now making a modest comeback.

They are ideal as garden retreats for meditation, and as "gazing" points from which to enjoy a quiet view.

The Entrance Hall Requires Some Kind Of Separation

Handyman's Pages

Every home needs an entrance hall. It's an essential ingredient which functions something like a good highway interchange.

From the entryway, there should be direct access to the three major areas of the home: the kitchen-utility, living and dining rooms, and the bedroom wing. This lets each area function independently and without traffic problems.

An entrance hall doesn't need to be designed in the grand manner to work well. It can be relatively small and open to the living room and still serve its purpose. To gauge needed size, figure on four people being able to stand and remove coats without hitting each other.

IN MOST HOMES, it's best to let the entrance hall connect visually with the living room so that each can borrow space from the other. Yet, some separation is needed to preserve the entrance hall's individuality.

Attractive wooden screens, simple and open in pattern, could do the trick, or use of a head-height storage divider. Such a divider could also be designed to act as a guest closet if one is not already built into the entrance hall. Otherwise, it can be a shallow freestanding unit designed as an entertainment wall, or for general storage.

Difference in floor covering is another good, practical way to supplement division between living room and entrance hall. There are many tough, washable flooring materials which would look well when laid down alongside the living room carpet. That, of course, is a point also to keep in mind: Floor coverings must be complementary in a connecting entry-living room.

WALL SURFACES should be the same, however, to provide continuity of decor. Paneling in a finely-grained wood would be ideal and would lend importance to the entrance area. Hemlock's creamy beige coloring is an asset, since it has the effect of enlarging small spaces.

Extra decorating is unnecessary in the entrance hall when wall surfaces and floor covering are first-rate. Additionally, there would need be only an unusual light fixture and perhaps an interesting window treatment to flank the door.

WHEN GUESTS COME calling, it's nice to greet them in an entryway separated from the living room. Division can be minimum, yet effective. Here a storage divider and simple wood screens mark the boundary, but walls paneled in hemlock through both areas provide the needed decorative continuity. (Photo by West Coast Lumbermen's Assn.)

SPACE SAVER

A Nest Of Coffee Tables

At first glance, the coffee table at right appears to be like others of comparable design.

A close look, however, reveals three tables nesting in the space occupied by one.

This three-in-one, build-it-yourself piece of furniture has many uses. The slide-out tables permit extending the four-foot mother table to almost eight feet in length, or smaller tables may be used separately.

Simple in design, it blends perfectly with other furnishings regardless of period.

Step-by-step directions outlined in the pattern offered here simplify building. It provides a complete list of materials and explains where and when each is used. The full-size pattern indicates exact location, whenever two parts are fastened together.

The routed-out design may be finished with decorator blocks, while the balance of the table is stained.

Send 50 cents in coin or money order for Extending Coffee Table Pattern No. 452 to Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, New York.

WHAT YOU HAVE here is not just one coffee table, but a nest of three tables. For instructions on how to obtain the do-it-yourself pattern, see the story at left.

There's Always A Place To Put Secluded Sundeck

If your garage or carport has a flat roof, this might be the perfect place to put a secluded sundeck.

The asphalt roofing of the flat-topped carport can be covered with wood decking to provide a cool, comfortable surface for the outdoor room.

Using hardy Douglas fir lumber, build the decking in squares of four feet. Deck boards should be two-by-fours installed either on edge or flat, and runners underneath should be four-by-fours to lift the deck well away from the asphalt. The decking can be built in the home workshop, then transported to the rooftop.

The squares of decking will not be permanently attached to the rooftop, but rather will be movable. This permits easy removal for any needed future repairs to the roofing underneath.

Screens can also be added around the edge of this rooftop room to provide privacy or to control wind, and, of course, an outside stairway will be needed to reach it.

If you want to get sophisticated, add a garden to the rooftop sundeck with planter boxes of greens and flowers. Imitation river rock—actually lightweight plastic — can be also used to create gravel beds. The "rock" should be contained in shallow boxes and may be alternated with squares of decking for natural appearance.

Meet the furniture designed as contemporary art! See Modern Artisan at Bellach's, and add a dramatic new dimension to your life. No other furniture expresses you so well! Artistic use of Carpathian Elm accents the contemporary art style of this tasteful bedroom. Note how the muted Velvet Walnut veneers are contrasted by the design of the bronzed drawer pulls. Kroehler expresses contemporary art in this modern Artisan suite—and expresses your hoped-for wish by putting this fine furniture within your budget!

Don't forget . . .

A staff of qualified decorators is always at your disposal. No charge for this service, of course.
